

NAWONAL DAMPOONS

ANTMAL HOUSE

A comedy from Universal Pictures

THE MATTY SIMMONS - IVAN REITMAN PRODUCTION

"NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE" Starring JOHN BELUSHI · TIM MATHESON · JOHN VERNON VERNA BLOOM · THOMAS HULCE and DONALD SUTHERLAND as JENNINGS Produced by MATTY SIMMONS and IVAN REITMAN · Music by ELMER BERNSTEIN Written by HAROLD RAMIS, DOUGLAS KENNEY & CHRIS MILLER · Directed by JOHN LANDIS

Original sound tracks on MCA Records & Topes.

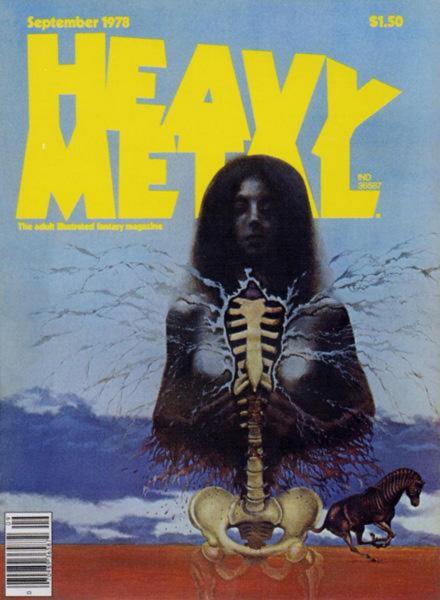

A UNIVERSAL PICTURE TECHNICOLOR®

The Tracks of Topes o

At Theatres Everywhere This Summer

CHAIN

The Editors:

Heavy Metal is an extraordinary magazine and I will continue to buy it (probably)... no matter what. But I'll be spending my buck fifty every month because of the art—despite the presence of punk, pseudo-intellectual editors. Julie Simmons deserves to have her smart ass kicked, and I would dearly love to be the one to do it. New York, unfortunately, is 10,000 light years away....

In recent letters, some of your readers have complained about the sexist nature of some of the strips. The artists in question undoubtedly have twisted attitudes towards women—that's as plain as the ink on your fucking pages—but Julie Simmons refuses to admit it. Instead, she prefers to crap on everybody, knowing full well that she has the last say. Big deal, Julie—you're just an editor on a magazine that has fewer words in it than People.

The two ladies who wrote in complaining about the sexism had a point. All Simmons had to do was acknowledge that.

Great sexist art is still great art. I'll take it if there's nothing better...and all I want from Julie Simmons, managing editor, is assurance that there is nothing better. She can take her lectures (HM 5/78) and cram them 'cause they ain't worth a buck fifty and neither is she.

Mark Hume Victoria, B.C.

Whooooo, doggies! What a vicious tongue! I sincerely feel you blew my replies to our women's lib activists a tad out of proportion. I appreciate your enthusiasm, but cool off, buddy!—Julie Simmons, "punk, pseudo-intellectual editor."

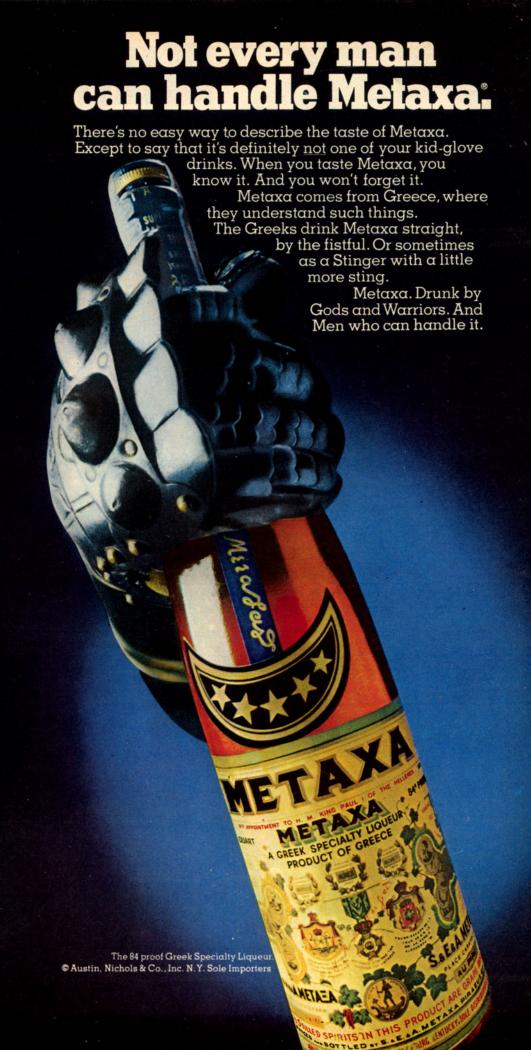

Metal People:

It seems to me that you people made a small error in translation in the final part of Druillet's "Urm the Mad." You quote a poet as saying, "There is no death beyond the gates eternal, but eons hence a stranger will come, and death itself shall die." Nothing wrong with that, really, but it reminds me of a famous couplet by the poet Howard Phillips Lovecraft, which goes:

"That is not dead which can eternal lie,

And with strange eons, even death may die."

continued on page 12

Vol. II. No. 5

September 1978

Chain Mail, 1

...Additionally..., 4

The New Tales of the Arabian Nights, Sindbad in the Land of Ginn, by Corben and Strnad, 6

The Smadakcaj Tree, by Workman, 12

The Airtight Garage of Jerry Cornelius, by Moebius, 15

Orion, by Morrow, 19

Off-Season, by Zha and Claveloux, 27

The Horror of G'Zalth, by Brocal Remohi, 35

Galactic Geographic, by Kofoed, 48

Nebogipfel at the End of Time, by Richard Lupoff, 50

Urban Renewal, by Bissette, 54

The Sweet Smell of Science, by Benoit, 55

Rochberny, by Rochberny, 63

Croatoan, by Ellison, Sutton, Alcala, and Oliff, 64

Heilman, by Voss, 77

Gail, by Druillet, 85

At Play in Time and Space, by Sonntag and Kinney, 93

Front cover, Born with the Dead, by Jim Burns

Back cover by Charles Vess

"Croatoan," by Harlan Ellison, Tom Sutton, Alfredo Alcala, and Stephen Oliff. Graphic story version "Croatoan," copyright © 1978, Byron Preiss Visual Publications, Inc. Original story copyright @ 1975, by Harlan Ellison.

"Sindbad in the Land of Ginn," from The New Tales of the Arabian Nights, copyright © 1978, by Richard Corben and Jan Strnad.

"Galactic Geographic," copyright © 1978, by Karl Kofoed. "Orion," copyright © 1978, by Gray Morrow. "Rochberny," copyright @ 1978, by Rochberny.

"At Play in Time and Space," copyright © 1978, Jay Kinney and Ned Sonntag.

Front cover, copyright @ 1978, by Jim Burns Back cover, copyright @ 1978, by Charles Vess.

"The Horror of G'Zalth," by Brocal Remohi, is from Pilote magazine, copyright © 1977 and 1978. Pilote magazine is published by Dargaud Editeur, Nueilly sur Seine, France. Reprinted by permission.

"The Airtight Garage of Jerry Cornelius," by Moebius, "Off-Season," by Zha and Claveloux, "The Sweet Smell of Science," by Benoit, "Heilman," by Voss, and "Gail," by Druillet are all from Metal Hurlant, copyright © 1976, 1977, 1978. Metal Hurlant is published by L. F. Editions, Les Humanoides Associés, Paris. Reprinted by permission.
"Nebogipfel at the End of Time," copyright © 1978, by Richard Lupoff. Constructed illustration by Carolyn Ogden.

Editors: Sean Kelly, Valerie Marchant

Copy Editor: Susan Devins

Foreign Rights Manager: Barbara Sabatino

Art Assistant: Bill Workman

Design Director: Peter Kleinman Managing Editor: Julie Simmons Production Manager: George Agoglia, Jr.

Publisher: Richard B. Barthelmes

Art Director: John Workman Circulation Director: George S. Agoglia, Sr. Publishing Directors: Matty Simmons and Leonard Mogel

Advertising Manager: Colin Wight

A New Concept of the death of t

GUARANTEE —
IF YOU ARE NOT COMPLETELY SATISFIED
WITH THIS WONDERFUL RECORD, RETURN
IT TO ANALOG RECORDS, WITHIN 10 DAYS
AND YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED.

$_

_is enclosed

(payable to ANALOG RECORDS)
(Add 55¢ per record to cover postage and handling)

"NIGHTFALL by Isaac Asimov

ust $6.95

- First dramatization of its kind ever.
- Thrill to the performance of talented actors and actresses.
- 331/3 LP top quality record.

SIGNATURE

- The classic of science fiction stories by America's foremost science fiction writer.
- Includes a dialogue between Isaac Asimov and Ben Bova, Editor of Analog Science Fiction/Science Fact Magazine.

Yes, I want to enjoy NIGHTFALL by ISAAC ASIMOV. Please send me______ records at $6.95 each. Name (please print) Address Apt. No. City State Zip Name (please print) Address Apt. No. State City Zip Please charge my ☐ American Express □ VISA ☐ My check/money order for

EXP. DATE

ANALOG RECORDS • 350 Madison Avenue • New York, N.Y. 10017

We begin this eighteenth edition with a heartfelt cry from the depths of the slush pile. No more unsolicited manuscripts, please! Ms Simmons (as all old pros know, ms is short for manuscript) can no longer find the inner strength to carry on the silent and tedious gong show she undertakes when scanning the things. Her fingers are raw from opening them, her tongue in traction from licking stamped, self-addressed return envelopes. She resembles no one so much as Titus Andronicus's daughter Lavinia, who, according to the stage direction, enters "with her hands cut off, and her tongue cut out, and ravished." Ravished, in this case, refers rather to the condition of the woman's mind, reeling under the impact of yet another tale of interspecies sex aboard an orbiting time machine.

The issue you are holding, you will notice, contains rather more than the usual quotient of intentional humor. While it is not our plan to take on the National Lampoon in a battle for boffs, we did feel that—as another school year approaches—our readers could use a little whimsy.

Next month is our Hallowe'en special, a celebration of the fantasy fans' feast. In its honor, we will present the Bill Stout illustrated version of Harlan Ellison's spook classic, Shattered Like a Glass Goblin, and Mark Wheatley's insalubrious saga of dragons' puberty rites. Can you wait?

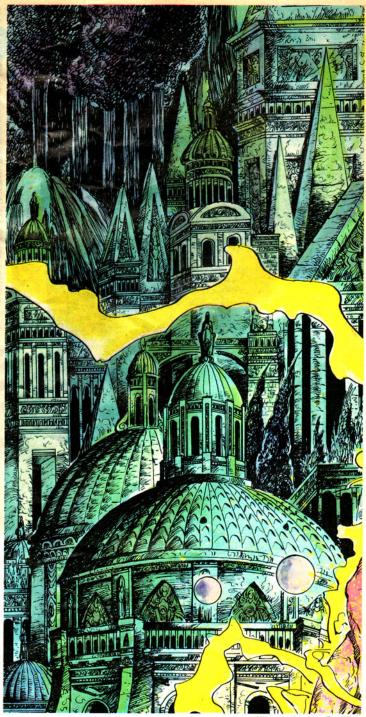

Illustration by Druille

HM COMMUNICATIONS, INC., is a subsidiary of Twenty First Century Communications, Inc.

Chairman Matty Simmons

President Leonard Mogel

Sr. Vice-President, Circulation George S. Agoglia
Vice President, Finance Charles Schneider
Vice-President, Creative Projects Sean Kelly
Vice-President, Subscriptions and Product Sales Howard Jurofsky
Vice-President, Advertising Sales Richard B. Barthelmes
Controller Esther Barrett

HEAVY METAL MAGAZINE: "Heavy Metal" is a trademark of HM Communications, Inc., Copyright © 1978 HM Communications, Inc., 635 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022. All rights reserved. Nothing may be reprinted in whole of in part without written permission from the publisher. Any similarity to real people and places in fiction and semi-fiction is purely coincidental.

SUBSCRIPTIONS: Published monthly by HM Communications, Inc., 635 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022, $18.00 paid annual subscription, $26.00 paid two-year subscription, and $33.00 paid three-year subscription in territorial U.S. Additional $2.50 for Canada, Mexico, and foreign. Second class postage paid at New York, N.Y. and at additional mailing offices.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS: Subscriber please send change of address to Circulation Manager, Heavy Metal Magazine, 635 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022. Allow six weeks for change, POSTMASTER: Please mail form 3579 notices to Circulation Manager, Heavy Metal Magazine, 635 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022.

ADVERTISING OFFICES: New York: Colin Wight, Advertising Manager, Heavy Metal Magazine, 625 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022 (212) 688-4070. Chicago: William H. Sanke, Midwest Advertising Director, 360 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, III. 60601 (312) 346-7145. West Coast: Lowell Fox and Associates, 16033 Ventura Boulevard, Encino, Ca. 91436 (213) 990-2950. Southern Offices: Brown & Company, Northside Tower, Suite 407, 6065 Roswell Road, N.E., Atlanta, Ga. 30328 (404) 252-9820.

EDITORIAL INFORMATION: Publisher assumes no responsibility for unsolicited material.

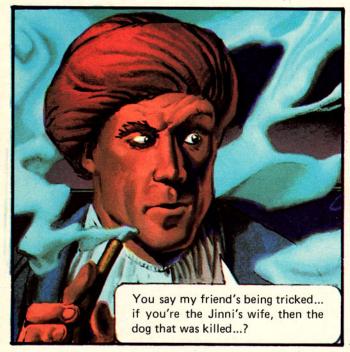

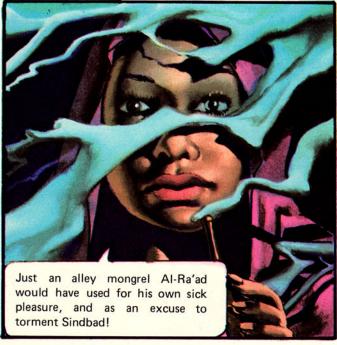

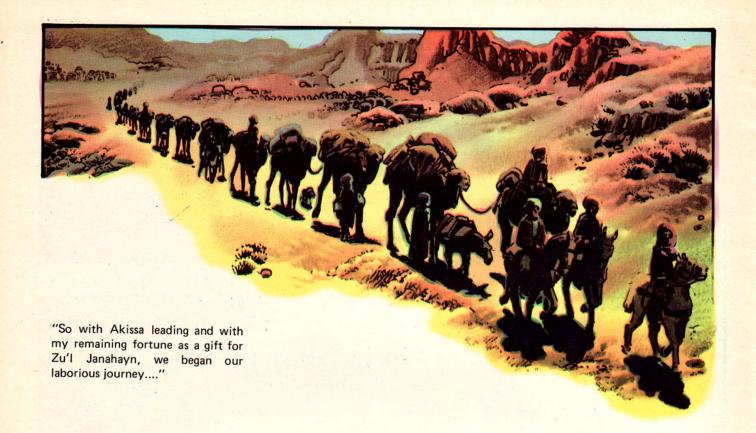

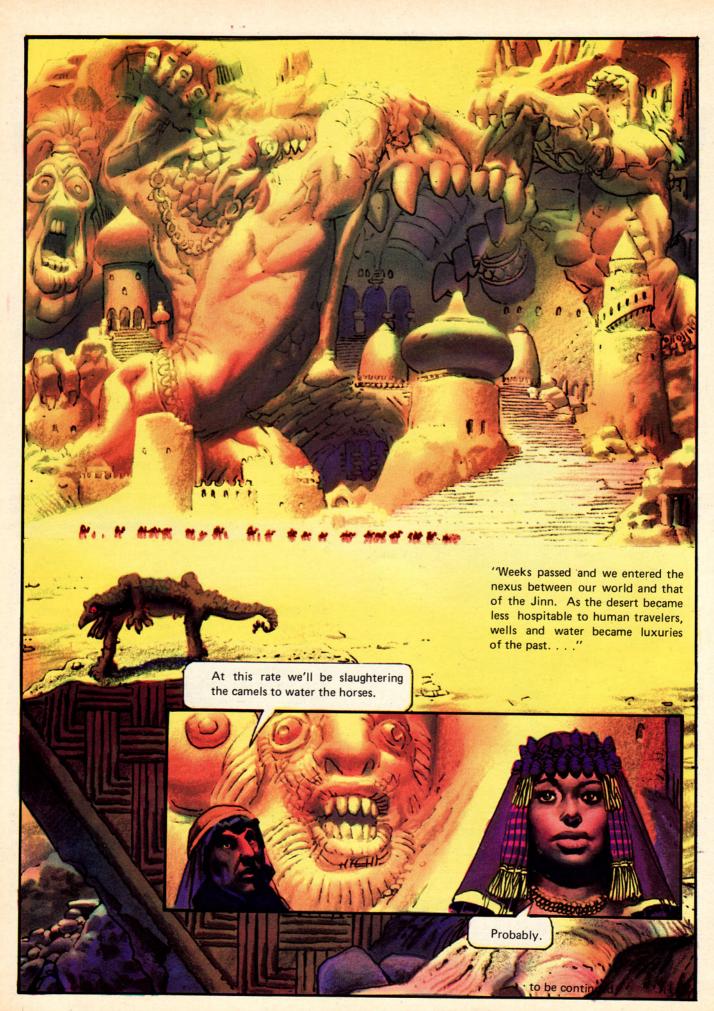

FROM

PSYCHOROCK: Five stories by Sergio Macedo that have made him a cult figure wherever people have seen the sky rip open and intergalactic bikers battle android overlords for the favors of goddess-groupies to the sound of punk rock. Sixty-four pages in black and white with a bizarre four-color cover. Large size 11" by 9". $3.95. HM4010

ARZACH: All four of the brilliant, full-color adventures of Moebius's pterodactyl-riding hero, acclaimed as works of genius when they appeared in the first issues of Heavy Metal magazine. Plus the amazing, animated story of the man who cracked the Cosmic Egg. Sixty-four pages including thirty-two of perhaps the most astounding color you will ever see on paper. $6.95. HM4011 candice at SEA: A new comic heroine, in the great tradition of Barbarella, Phoebe Zeitgeist, and Modesty Blaise, Candice, who can't seem to find a thing to wear, is shanghaied, plundered, keelhauled, and otherwise entertained for sixty-four pages of nautical insanity in perhaps the sexiest black and white ever drawn. Heavy chrome coat cover. 9" by 11". $3.95. HM4012

HEAL

CONQUERING ARMIES: From Heavy Metal magazine, the dream epic of fierce horsemen who have never lost a battle and never won a war, who have always come and gone and who will always return. Script by Metal Hurlant editor Jean-Pierre Dionnet, with magnificently detailed black and white art by the mysterious Gal. Large size $9\sqrt[3]{4}$ x $13\sqrt[4]{7}$. \$4.95. HM4013

ULYSSES, PART I: Art and text by Lob and Pichard (who brought you Candice at Sea), based on the story by Homer (who brought you the Iliad). The brave Ulysses pits his strength and wit against gods with the morals of movie producers and goddesses with the morals of movie starlets as he makes his way home across the universe. Certain to have been a classic. Full color. 9" x 11", $6.95, HM4014

IS MAN GOOD?: From Heavy Metal's first year, the collected full-color Moebius, including the sixteen-page space-spy saga, "The Long Tomorrow," the beautiful "Ballade," the eerie "Small Universe," and the utterly grotesque title story. This fifty-six page book includes, all the covers, one-pagers, jokes, nightmares and endpapers done so far by Moebius, Heavy Metal's most acclaimed author-artist. Full-color illustrations throughout. 9" x 11". $5.95. HM4015

HEAVY METAL BOOKS, Dept. HM-978 635 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022 Please send me the book bargains circled below. Please add 60¢ per title for postage and shipping charges. Enclosed find $ Send check or money order only. Payable to HEAVY METAL BOOKS. Sales Tax: For delivery in N.Y.C., add 8%. For delivery elsewhere in New York State, add 6%. ☐ HM4010 ☐ HM4012 ☐ HM4011 ☐ HM4013 ☐ HM4014 ☐ HM4015 Name...(Please print) Address..... City......Zip.....Zip.....

Continued from page 1

Druillet's translation of Lovecraft was probably accurate, and your translation of Druillet was probably accurate, but as you can see, your version lacks the power of Lovecraft's.

While I'm here, I might as well throw in a bit of praise. I'll just say that Heavy Metal is better while stoned, and being stoned is better with Heavy Metal.

Rick Hunik, Quesnel, B.C.

Dear Heavy Metal,

Wow! Consider this mind suitably croggled. HM #15 was superb-the best issue to date!

The Corben/Strnad epic, "New Tales of the Arabian Nights," excites me no end. I eagerly look forward to subsequent chapters. Corben's art is superb, and the subtlety of the writing and plotting leaves me gaping in openmouthed admiration.

But "Sabre" angered me. To tease your loyal readers with this marvelous tale of politics and adventure, then blithely tell us we can buy the whole story for six bucks is a crime. You should have bought and run the entire epic, even if it meant pawning your

"More Than Human" is eye-riveting in its art, color, and layout. The story, of course, is a classic, and well-deserving of Nino's truly admirable talents.

Kofoed's "Galactic Geographic" is always a fascinating slice of other life. "Report V.1" is one of the best space operas I've seen - better in some aspects than Planet Stories or Star

Sadly, the rest of the zine failed to meet the high standards of the first two thirds. There are many who will choke and call upon various arcane gods at your description of Bob Aull as a Bodé disciple. "Evolution" demonstrates his talents as a colorist, but on the whole, it struck me as a very shallow, very pale imitation of Vaughn Bodé at his best. His artwork is crude and his theme juvenile. However, he does have some promise; the sequence on the bottom half of page 71 was inspired.

Buzz Dixon North Hollywood, Calif.

Dear Buzz: Thanks for the freelance review. Problem was, we couldn't get all of Sabre; it had been sold elsewhere, and the best we could do was that sneak preview. Pawn your soul and shell out six bucks for the book. - Eds.

Dear Heavy Metal editors:

I am an avid reader of your magazine and find it fascinating. But I have one chief complaint. Just because a story is violent, disgusting, full of sex, and pointless does not make it good. Case in point: your June 1978 story "Evolution"....

> David F. New York

Dear David: May we call you "F"? We seldom choose a story just because it is disgusting. Or pointless. But when we get one like "Evolution," which is also full of sex and violence, we can't resist. - Eds.

Dear Heavies,

Love your magazine (will even tolerate certain dumb strips like those of Macedo-and I thought all the hippies died in 1970) to get at classics like Druillet and Moebius. Am surprised it took this long for folks in the publishing biz on this side of the Atlantic toget smart and catch up with the work of the humanoids. Am left with a couple of qualms (not an extinct flightless bird) though. Is it true you first write your ads in French and then translate 'em into cumbersome English? And I've heard rumors of a feature-length animated film based on Druillet's "Lone Sloane" epic-is this just tropical madness or swamp gas or what!

Bruce Townley Alexandria, Va.

Dear Bruce: We'll have you know that all our ads are personally scripted by publisher Matty Simmons, the man who invented the Grasshopper and who is a personal friend of Earl Wilson. As for the Lone Sloane feature, everyone in Paris is five minutes into an animation feature. It's all the rage this season, Simone De Beauvoir is doing one with Macedo....-Eds.

Metalik Direktors:

Even though your "Amerikanised" version is not as risqué as the original editions by the Associated Humanoids in gay Paree, still your magazine is a now, very now mindwarp!!! Moebius's "Arzak," "Long Tomorrow," and "Airtight Garage," plus Druillet's "Gail," "Lone Sloane/Delirius," and "Urm" are what I call now! The use of wide angle, panoramas, subjective, pans, and zooms accentuate their work as well as giving them artistic license. The only complaint I have is that they all stress visual over narrative and the results can sometimes be a bit lopsided. It is my belief that the best storytellers are Moebius and Amerikan artist Richard "Gore" Corben. (It surprises me that many letter hacks believe him to be an exponent of Europe-by descent, yesbut he is very Amerikan. They are obviously not familiar with his works for Slow Death, Rowif, Squu Tront & Creepy, Eerie, Vampirella comix.

has the honor of being-to my knowledge-the only Amerikan artist to have his work printed in the original Metal Hurlant editions.)

To D. D'Falahee, Lynn Reynolds, and others on the sexist/chauvinist concept around HM, they are right, but to say that the book does not offer any femme individualists is a lie! I offer Shay Amonn, Kath, Loona, the Black Queen-albeit the rampant free love/pseudo-Communist/socialist/intelligentsia- and perhaps the finest femme I have seen in this book: the evil queen in "Den" (who was the only person in that epic who could defeat the mad necromancer Ard. Not Den or Kang or even Kath?!!).

As for Corben's recent "Shahrazad," I thought his artwork was brilliant as always, but his two mistakes were (a) his depiction of the Moslems as Europeans; obviously, artist Corben does not know that Arabia isn't far from Afrika Kush and that the populace is Afro-Asiatic, and (b) Moslems/muslims/ moors have a profound respect for their women and would not allow them to bare their flesh so brazenly or reveal their faces!

The serializations of Zelazny's "A Rose for Ecclesiastes" and Sturgeon's More Than Human are brilliant and deserving of ACBA awards or more! More, more, more!!

On the whole, your magazine is good; keep it well oiled and running smoothly.

Let there be light.

Don Newsome Newark, N.J.

Dear Don: Don't look know, but the con your typewriter keeps printing k. Your enthusiasm, however, is infectious and appreciated. - Eds.

Dear Heavy Metal,

As far as the controversy over whether Heavy Metal is too European or not goes, I would have to say that I enjoy the chance to see non-American work. It "widens my horizons." Maybe a good American story once in a while, but let's keep the concept European.

Druillet's full-page pictures in "Urm the Mad" are more than stunning, while his "City of Flowers" was a trip not only in art, but the story was excellent (although predictable).

But the story that hit me the most was E. E. Davis's "Macabres Que" from the "Paradise 9" section. Each and every panel had such drama and feeling to it that I was literally dazed after going through it. The fact that this story didn't even have any dialogue helps prove that a picture is worth a thousand words.

> B. W. Barrows Overland Park, Ks.

12 HEAVY METAL

Continued from page 1

Druillet's translation of Lovecraft was probably accurate, and your translation of Druillet was probably accurate, but as you can see, your version lacks the power of Lovecraft's.

While Γm here, I might as well throw in a bit of praise. ΓII just say that Heavy Metal is better while stoned, and being stoned is better with Heavy Metal.

Rick Hunik, Quesnel, B.C.

Dear Heavy Metal,

Wow! Consider this mind suitably croggled. HM #15 was superb—the best issue to date!

The Corben/Strnad epic, "New Tales of the Arabian Nights," excites me no end. I eagerly look forward to subsequent chapters. Corben's art is superb, and the subtlety of the writing and plotting leaves me gaping in openmouthed admiration.

But "Sabre" angered me. To tease your loyal readers with this marvelous tale of politics and adventure, then blithely tell us we can buy the whole story for six bucks is a crime. You should have bought and run the entire epic, even if it meant pawning your souls.

"More Than Human" is eye-riveting in its art, color, and layout. The story, of course, is a classic, and well-deserving of Nino's truly admirable talents.

Kofoed's "Galactic Geographic" is always a fascinating slice of other life. "Report V.I" is one of the best space operas I've seen – better in some aspects than Planet Stories or Star Wars.

Sadly, the rest of the zine failed to meet the high standards of the first two thirds. There are many who will choke and call upon various arcane gods at your description of Bob Aull as a Bodé disciple. "Evolution" demonstrates his talents as a colorist, but on the whole, it struck me as a very shallow, very pale imitation of Vaughn Bodé at his best. His artwork is crude and his theme juvenile. However, he does have some promise; the sequence on the bottom half of page 71 was inspired.

Buzz Dixon North Hollywood, Calif.

Dear Buzz: Thanks for the freelance review. Problem was, we couldn't get all of Sabre; it had been sold elsewhere, and the best we could do was that sneak preview. Pawn your soul and shell out six bucks for the book.—Eds.

Dear Heavy Metal editors:

I am an avid reader of your magazine and find it fascinating. But I have one chief complaint. Just because a story is violent, disgusting, full of sex, and pointless does not make it good. Case in point: your June 1978 story "Evolution"....

David F. New York

Dear David: May we call you "F"? We seldom choose a story just because it is disgusting. Or pointless. But when we get one like "Evolution," which is also full of sex and violence, we can't resist.—Eds.

Dear Heavies,

Love your magazine (will even tolerate certain dumb strips like those of Macedo-and I thought all the hippies died in 1970) to get at classics like Druillet and Moebius. Am surprised it took this long for folks in the publishing biz on this side of the Atlantic toget smart and catch up with the work of the humanoids. Am left with a couple of qualms (not an extinct flightless bird) though. Is it true you first write your ads in French and then translate 'em into cumbersome English? And I've heard rumors of a feature-length animated film based on Druillet's "Lone Sloane" epic-is this just tropical madness or swamp gas or what!

Bruce Townley Alexandria, Va.

Dear Bruce: We'll have you know that all our ads are personally scripted by publisher Matty Simmons, the man who invented the Grasshopper and who is a personal friend of Earl Wilson. As for the Lone Sloane feature, everyone in Paris is five minutes into an animation feature. It's all the rage this season. Simone De Beauvoir is doing one with Macedo...—Eds.

Metalik Direktors:

Even though your "Amerikanised" version is not as risqué as the original editions by the Associated Humanoids in gay Paree, still your magazine is a now, very now mindwarp!!! Moebius's "Arzak," "Long Tomorrow," and "Airtight Garage," plus Druillet's "Gail," "Lone Sloane/Delirius," and "Urm" are what I call now! The use of wide angle, panoramas, subjective, pans, and zooms accentuate their work as well as giving them artistic license. The only complaint I have is that they all stress visual over narrative and the results can sometimes be a bit lopsided. It is my belief that the best storytellers are Moebius and Amerikan artist Richard "Gore" Corben. (It surprises me that many letter hacks believe him to be an exponent of Europe-by descent, yesbut he is very Amerikan. They are obviously not familiar with his works for Slow Death, Rowif, Squu Tront & Creepy, Eerie, Vampirella comix.

has the honor of being—to my knowledge—the only Amerikan artist to have his work printed in the original Metal Hurlant editions.)

To D. D'Falahee, Lynn Reynolds, and others on the sexist/chauvinist concept around HM, they are right, but to say that the book does not offer any femme individualists is a lie! I offer Shay Amonn, Kath, Loona, the Black Queen—albeit the rampant free love/pseudo-Communist/socialist/intelligentsia—and perhaps the finest femme I have seen in this book: the evil queen in "Den" (who, was the only person in that epic who could defeat the mad necromancer Ard. Not Den or Kang or even Kath?!!).

As for Corben's recent "Shahrazad." I thought his artwork was brilliant as always, but his two mistakes were (a) his depiction of the Moslems as Europeans; obviously, artist Corben does not know that Arabia isn't far from Afrika/Kush and that the populace is Afro-Asiatic, and (b) Moslems/muslims, moors have a profound respect for their women and would not allow them to bare their flesh so brazenly or reveal their faces!

The serializations of Zelazny's "A Rose for Ecclesiastes" and Sturgeon's More Than Human are brilliant and deserving of ACBA awards or more! More, more, more!!

On the whole, your magazine is good; keep it well oiled and running smoothly.

Let there be light.

Don Newsome Newark, N.J.

Dear Don: Don't look know, but the con your typewriter keeps printing k. Your enthusiasm, however, is infectious and appreciated.—Eds.

Dear Heavy Metal,

As far as the controversy over whether Heavy Metal is too European or not goes, I would have to say that I enjoy the chance to see non-American work. It "widens my horizons." Maybe a good American story once in a while, but let's keep the concept European.

Druillet's full-page pictures in "Urm the Mad" are more than stunning, while his "City of Flowers" was a trip not only in art, but the story was excellent (although predictable).

But the story that hit me the most was E. E. Davis's "Macabres Que" from the "Paradise 9" section. Each and every panel had such drama and feeling to it that I was literally dazed after going through it. The fact that this story didn't even have any dialogue helps prove that a picture is worth a thousand words

B. W. Barrows Overland Park, Ks.

The book behind the movie behind the magazine...

First you read Dr. Zhivago...then you saw the movie. First you saw the movie...then you read the Ten Commandments. Frankly, we don't care which you see or read first...as long as you see:

National Lampoon's Animal House and read:

National Lampoon's Animal House Book

Written by Chris Miller, from the original screenplay by Harold Ramis, Douglas Kenney, and Chris Miller

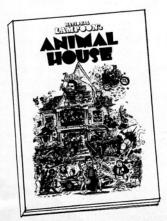

The most unusual movie book ever published.... With ...

- ...a complete novelization of the film
- ...full-color illustrations by Rick Meyerowitz/Rodrigues Shary Flenniken/Gahan Wilson/Warren Sattler/Charles White Wayne McLoughlin/Boris Vallejo/Mara McAfee/Randall Enos and others
- ... comic strip sequences that pick up and tell part of the story in picture form
- ... color photos of the cast, including John Belushi, Tim Matheson, Donald Sutherland, and even writer-actors Kenney and Miller
- ... color and black and white action shots from the movie and from location shooting at the University of Oregon

A book to read...to save...to reread...to hold book marks....

AT STORES AND NEWSSTANDS IN LATE JULY... OR SEND CHECK OR MONEY ORDER TODAY FOR ADVANCE COPY.

National Lampoon 635 Madison Avenue New York, N.Y. 10022

Yes, please send me	_copy(s) of National	Lampoon's Animal	House Book

I enclose $2.95 for each copy Please add 60¢ for postage and handling in the U.S., $1.00 for shipments to Canada, and $2.00 for shipments anywhere else in the world.

For the special deluxe edition, please send $4.95 for each copy plus $1.00 for postage and handling in the U.S. and Canada, or $2.00 for the rest of the world.

Sales tax: For delivery in N.Y.C., add 8 percent. For delivery elsewhere in New York State, add 6 percent.

Name
	(please print)
Address
City	State	Zip

State

16TH EPISODE: "NOTHING MUCH"

THE AIRTIGHT GARAGE OF JERRY CORNELIUS & BY MOEBIUS, M.S.F. STORY TO DATE: AS HE WALKED ALONG THE RUNWAY AT THE LITTLE AIRPORT OF OBEANT, ALCOMPANIED BY HIS FAVORITE CHOELEM, MAJOR GRUBERT HAD A SORT OF VISION... WITH THE HELP OF THIRTEEN GENERATORS ESPECIALLY CONSTRUCTED FOR THE PURPOSE, GRUBERT (WHO HAD FILED THE PATENT JUST THE DAY BEFORE), COULD TRANSFORM ANY OLD ASTEROID, LOST ANYWHERE IN THE BEYOND, INTO AN ENDRMOUS AND COMPLEX WORLD, SUCH AS WAS NEEDED ON SEVERAL LEVELS... THE FOLLOWING EVENTS PROVED HIM RIGHT... IT WAS NOT UNTIL MUCH LATER THAT HE MET MALVINA...

THIS SO-CALLED ARDANT ECHOY IS, IN FACT, SPER GOSST... AN AGENT OF THE WHATEVER

REVIVAC MOVEMENT. WHATEVER

IS NECESSAR CERVIC!

LOOK AT THE ORIGINAL .. THE LINES FORMING A "V" BEHIND THE THREE MEN

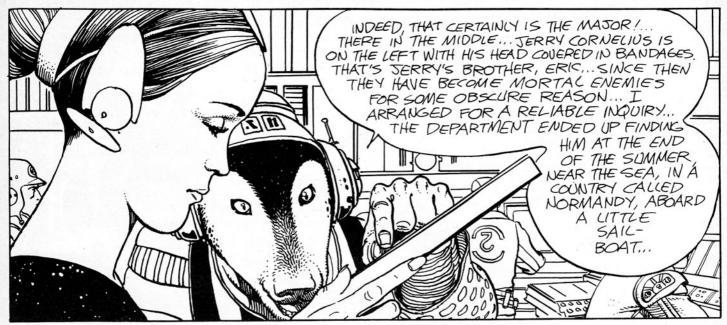

ARE EXACTLY THE SAME AS THOSE DECORATING THE

"QUOITS" PLANES DURING THE GREAT AERONAUTIC

WAR WHICH RAVAGED THE SUCCESS ACHIEVED, THON OFFERED HIS GIFT OF EVERLASTING LIFE TO HIS MISTRESS, THE WICKED CHANDRA. AS THEY TOASTED LIFE ETERNAL, SHE POISONED HER LOVER.

THEN, SHE TRANSFORMED INTO DROOMS AND BANISHED ALL WHO SOUGHT TO OPPOSE HER, OR CHANGED THEM INTO THE MINDLESS PUPPETS WHO COMPRISE THE SERVANTS AND GUESTS OF CASTLE CLAW, THEY PROVIDED HER WITH COMFORTS AND DIVERSIONS FOR ALL THE

CHANDRA HAS LIVED ALL THE TIME THAT FOLLOWED EXPLORING EVERY EXCESS, INDULGING EVERY WHIMBUT ALWAYS, SHE WAS CHAINED TO THIS VALE OF PERENNIAL DUSK,
FOR TO LEAVE THE LIFE-SUSTAINING
AND REGENERATIVE PROPERTIES OF THE VAPOR WOULD MEAN HER FINISH.

YET A WITCH HAS RESOURCES DENIED TO MERE MORTALS. CHANDRA CAN LEAVE XANSRA BY ONE INIQUITOUS DEVICE... SHE IS ABLE TO DOMINATE SPRITE'S WILL AND TAKE OVER HER HOST BODY, SENDING HER TO THE OUTER WORLD TO ENTRAP UNSUSPECTING DUPES AND LURE THEM BACK FOR HER OWN EVIL

SPRITE FURTHER RELATES THAT SHE HERSELF IS A MAGICAL AND
TOTAL CREATION OF THON'S, NOT TRULY LIVING IN THE HUMAN
SENSE. SHE IS A LORELEI, ABSOLUTELY IRRESISTIBLE TO ALL MEN AT FIRST SIGHT, SHE HAS BECOME THE UNWILLING
BAIT FOR EACH OF CHANDRA'S
NEW LOVERS, WHOM SHE
ENTICES FROM THE OUTSIDE
BUT WHO NEVER SATISFY
CHANDRA LONG ENOUGH TO DIE A NATURAL DEATH... THEY ARE EITHER SLAIN WHEN SHE TIRES OF THEM OR

CHANDRA DELIGHTS IN SPRITE'S
ANGLISH OVER HER ROLE AS A
DECOY AND TAKES RENEWED
PLEASURE IN THE HORRIBLE
SYMBIOTIC RITUAL EACH TIME
IT IS REPEATED, THIS IS A
VENGEANCE, FOR EVEN THON, IT SEEMS, WAS UNABLE TO RESIST
HIS OWN CREATION, AND THIS WAS THE REASON THE WITCH TOOK HER LOVER'S GIFT OF IMMORTALITY AND HIS LIFE

CHANDRA HAS AN ULTERIOR PURPOSE IN USING SPRITE TO BRING MEN TO XANSRA; HOWEVER. SHE CANNOT FATHOM THE COMPLEXITIES OF THE VAPOR DEVICES, BUT SHE HOPES TO FIND AN INTELLECT THE EQUAL OF THON WHO MIGHT BE ABLE TO FREE HER FROM ABSOLUTE DEPENDENCE UPON THEM. MANY THAT SPRITE PROCURED HAVE TRIED, ALL HAVE FAILED, NONE ESCAPED THE PENALTY OF THEIR INEFFICACY.

NOW A VICTIM HIMSELF OF SPRITE'S ENCHANTMENT, AND HEEDLESS OF HER FEARS THAT CHANDRA MIGHT AT ANY MOMENT DISCOVER THEM BY CONSULTING HER MAGIC POOL-OR WORSE-INVADE HER MIND, ORION TAKES HER IN THE BATH. THE LOVERS ESCAPE COITUS INTERRUPTUS THIS TIME, HOWEVER...

44

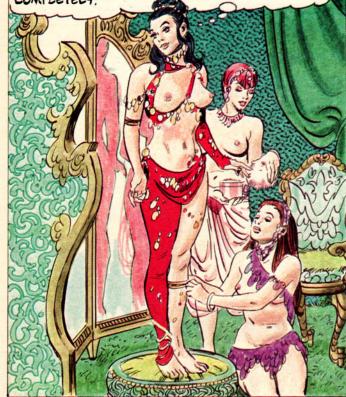

THAT BLADE RESISTS ALL MY MAGIC TO ENSNARE IT.'

I MUST PERSUADE ORION TO ALLOW ME IT'S USE,

WILLINGLY. WELL, THON'S LITTLE PET CAN HARDLY

HAVE DEPLETED SUCH A LUSTY WARRIOR'S PASSION

COMPLETELY.

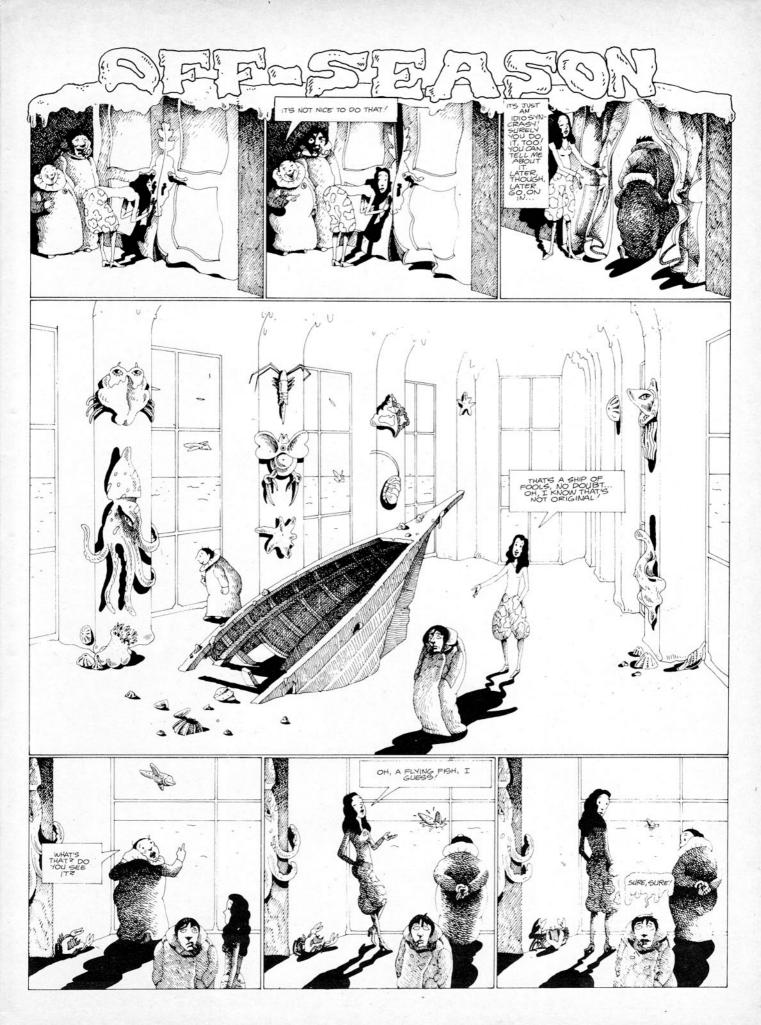

THE CELEBRANTS OF THE BALL REPOSE IN ATTITUDES OF STUPOR UNTIL THE SOUNDING OF A GONG ANNOUNCES CHANDRA'S ENTRANCE, THEN AT A CLAP OF HER HANDS, ALL THE PARTICIPANTS BECOME SUDDENLY ANIMATED...
THE WITCH QUEEN'S BACCHANAL RESUMES ONCE MORE

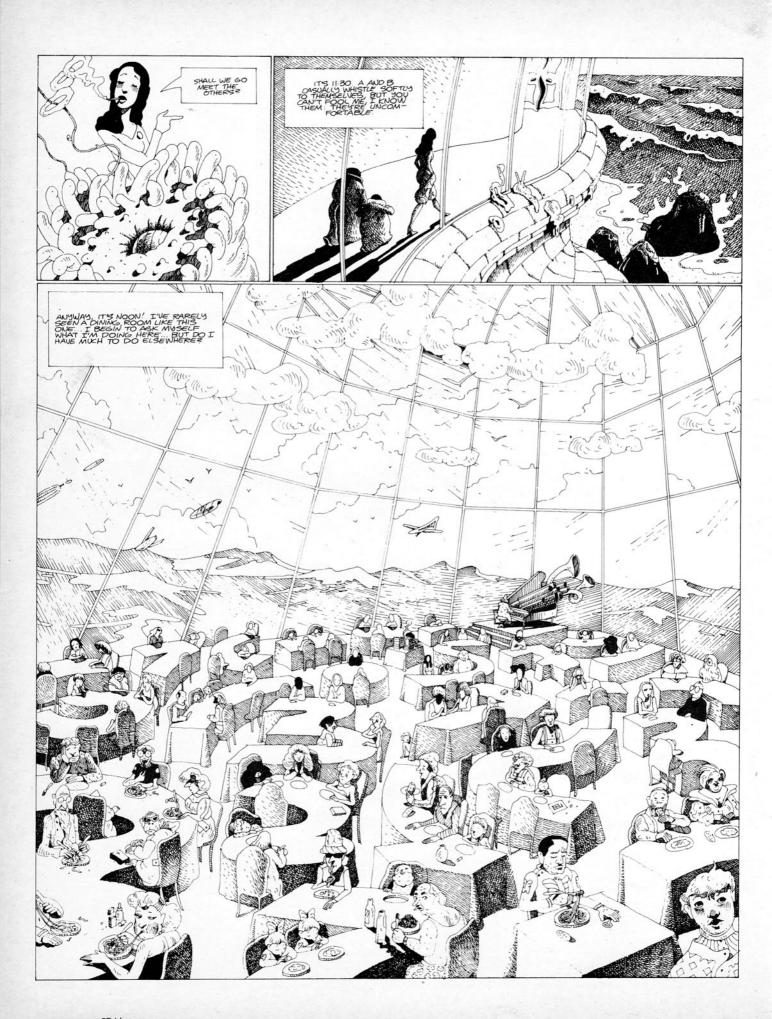

LIEAVA METAL 27

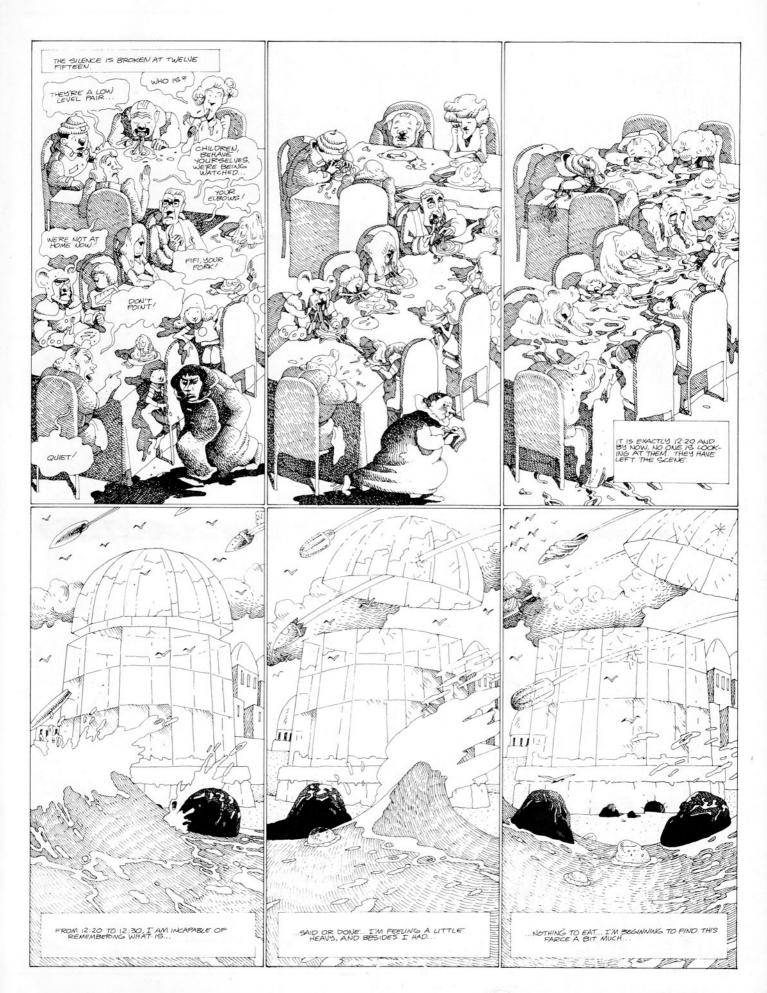

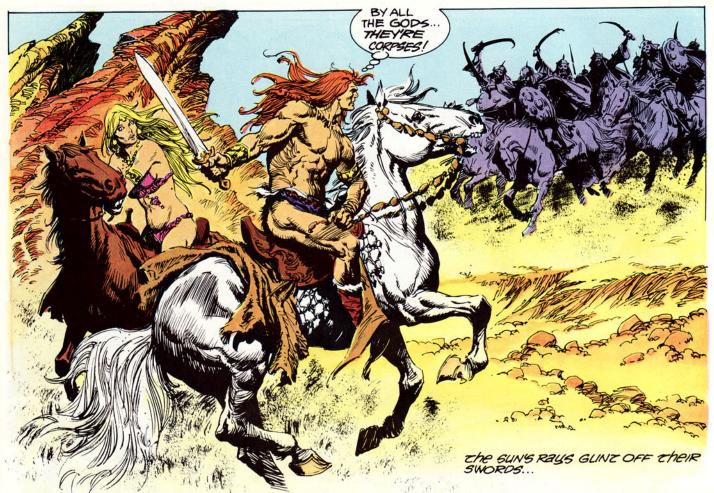

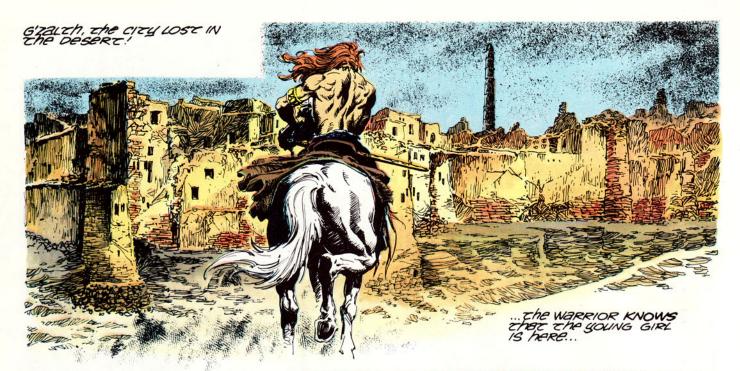

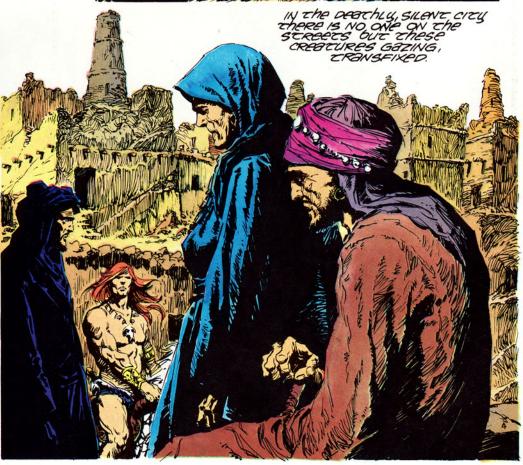

ARCAME REMEMBERS THE TALES TOLD OF GIZALTH, THAT ACCURSED CITY, ANTHRALLED TO THE ODIOUS PRESENCE OF THE MONSTER-GOD WHO INHABITS IT... GIZALTH, THE CITY WHICH IS CRUMBLING SLOWLY, AS IF ITS VERY STONES WERE DEING PRODED BY A CURSE...

The CITY IS LIKE 3 VAST TRAP. HE WHO PEN-BERATES ITS WALLS NEVER LEAVES AGAIN. ARTANE KNOWS THIS...

What was a block of stone Mere seconds before is now voracious tongues of fire...

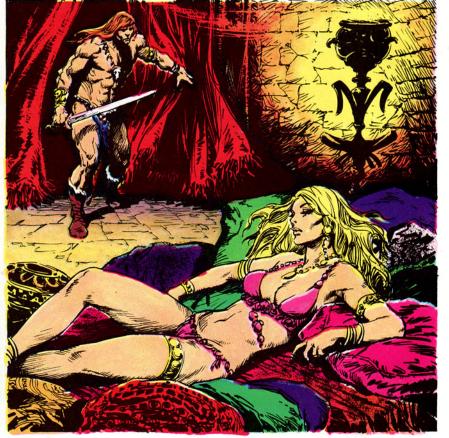

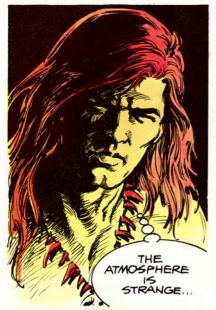

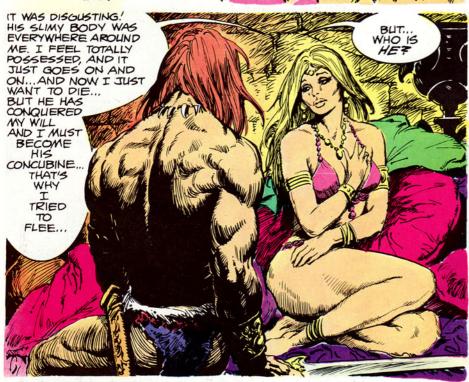

the GIRL has NO TIME TO REPLY. The CURTAIN OPENS AND DEATH ENTERS.

THE ROCTEN
STENCH
OF DEGIN INTENSE
FIES 35
CHEY
APPROACH
CARRENED
ENTENSE
CHEY
APPROACH
CARRENED
ENTERNES

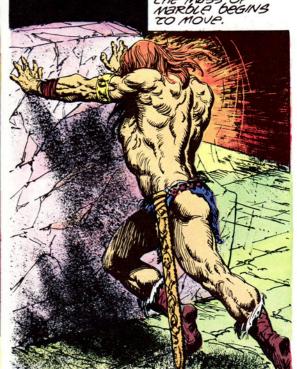

HIS SKULL HALF CRUSHED, THE MONSTER ATTACKS AGAIN!

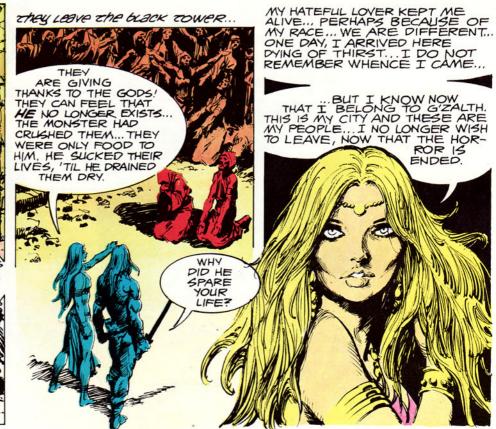

-11

DO YOU LUST FOR A HIGHER QUALITY

If you're planning to spend your hard-earned bucks on expensive hi-fi gear and your understanding of stereo is far past "beginner," Audio magazine can help you save money.

Of all major magazines in the field. Audio gives you the most, and the most detailed, impartial component equipment editorial content per year. You could easily buy two dozen books and not get as much component equipment information as you'd find in a year of Audio magazine!

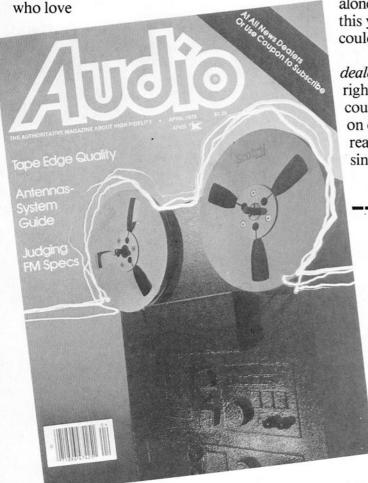

Each month Audio magazine focuses on a special area of interest to people excellent sounding stereo, including: loudspeakers, phono cartridges and pickups, cassette decks, amps, turntables, tuners, headphones, graphic equalizers, open reel decks, ambiance devices and more!

STEREO?

Know this—your hi-fi dealer probably subscribes to Audio magazine. He has to know the difference between great equipment and losers with "great names" or big price tags alone. If you're planning major hi fi purchases this year, a subscription to Audio magazine could save you hundreds of dollars.

Pick up a copy of Audio at leading hi-fi dealers, newsstands or start your subscription right now-fill out and mail the attached coupon—you can save real money on equipment and you will save real money over regular Audio single copy prices. Do it now.

YES —Start my subscription to Audio at once, with this special half-price offer of just $6 for a full 12 issues of AUDIO magazine. (Regular price is $12, so you save 50 %.)

☐ Bill me ☐ Payment enclosed

Address

City/State/Zip.

Mail to-Attn: Jean Davis, Audio, 401 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, PA 19108

Expect first issue in 6 to 8 weeks. Please add $3.00 per year for postage outside USA.

Offer good in U.S.A. and possessions only.

GALACTIC GEOGRAPHIC

RESCUE from a BLACK HOLE

ured to this area of the galaxy to investigate the source of a large burst of radiation, a Federation research group aboard the cruiser Wilson probed this star system invaded by a wandering black hole to observe and measure its effects. They found that a Blue Giant had trapped a less massive Black Body in relatively close orbit, and was rapidly losing matter to its companion, causing immense bursts of radiation.

The research group observed that the entire planetary system was being drawn into its center by the increased gravity and that the Black Hole would eventually consume everything. They immediately began a survey of the planets, finding one life-size planet populated by a social life form unlike any previously observed. The Wilson decided to attempt a rescue. They found that the colony of animals was the mobile organ of a blue jelly-like mass. The crew observed the colony building walls apparently to keep moving plantlike creatures out of their mound. The "plants" may have been forced into unusual activity by increased temperatures as their planet neared the sun.

In this picture, a technician, wearing a radsuit, uses a portable scan table to examine the biology of two small creatures to determine the extent of radiation damage. Because of their planet's slow rotation, the animals had received little lethal radiation, and are seen here observing their altered star possibly for the first time.

The crew labored around the clock excavating the mound, and moved it with a large sampling of the soil and life forms into the ship's hold. Surprisingly, the crew encountered no resistance to the intrusion, and the operation went smoothly. However, with the added weight, the Wilson could no longer develop enough power to pull away from the gravitational hold of the double-star. Instead, the ship accelerated toward the black hole, passing close enough to its high gravity to whip it into escape velocity.

The perilous maneuver required precision timing, but proved to be successful. Unfortunately, the sudden acceleration was too much for the jelly creatures. Efforts by the crew to protect the animals were sadly unrewarded, and the gel mound perished. Plants and other creatures endured the flight, and these were successfully transplanted in a simulated home environment at the Myhr Zoological Environs Complex. There it was discovered that the spore of the gel creatures had survived, and a new colony of these gentle animals was successfully cultivated.

From the Stellar Journals of Karl B. Kofoed

GALACTIC GEOGRAPHIC

RESCUE from a BLACK HOLE

ured to this area of the galaxy to investigate the source of a large burst of radiation, a Federation research group aboard the cruiser Wilson probed this star system invaded by a wandering black hole to observe and measure its effects. They found that a Blue Giant had trapped a less massive Black Body in relatively close orbit, and was rapidly losing matter to its companion, causing immense bursts of radiation.

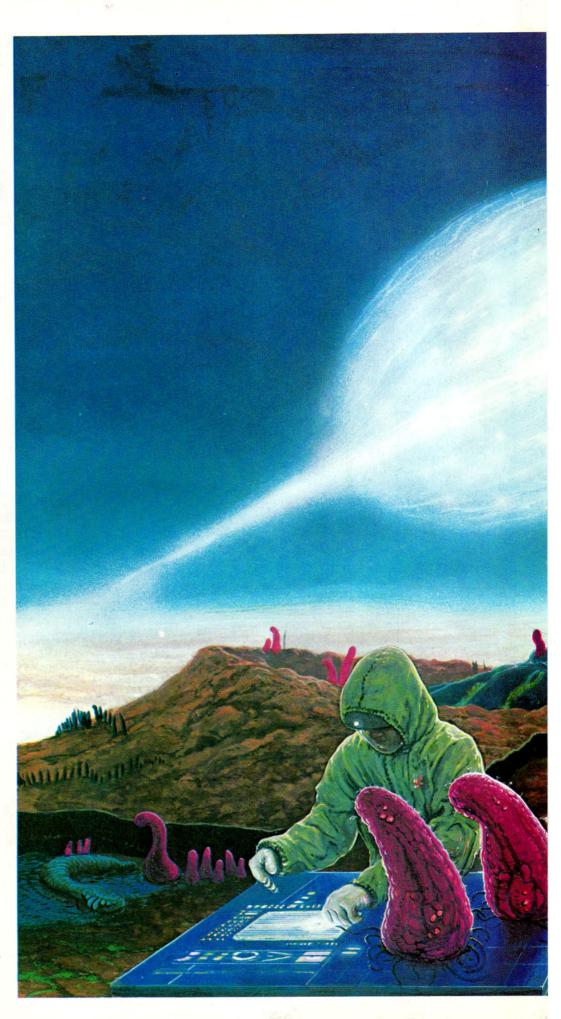

The research group observed that the entire planetary system was being drawn into its center by the increased gravity and that the Black Hole would eventually consume everything. They immediately began a survey of the planets, finding one life-size planet populated by a social life form unlike any previously observed. The Wilson decided to attempt a rescue. They found that the colonyof animals was the mobile organ of a blue jelly-like mass. The crew observed the colony building walls apparently to keep moving plantlike creatures out of their mound. The "plants" may have been forced into unusual activity by increased temperatures as their planet neared the sun.

In this picture, a technician, wearing a radsuit, uses a portable scan table to examine the biology of two small creatures to determine the extent of radiation damage. Because of their planet's slow rotation, the animals had received little lethal radiation, and are seen here observing their altered star possibly for the first time.

The crew labored around the clock excavating the mound, and moved it with a large sampling of the soil and life forms into the ship's hold. Surprisingly, the crew encountered no resistance to the intrusion, and the operation went smoothly. However, with the added weight, the Wilson could no longer develop enough power to pull away from the gravitational hold of the double-star. Instead, the ship accelerated toward the black hole, passing close enough to its high gravity to whip it into escape velocity.

The perilous maneuver required precision timing, but proved to be successful. Unfortunately, the sudden acceleration was too much for the jelly creatures. Efforts by the crew to protect the animals were sadly unrewarded, and the gel mound perished. Plants and other creatures endured the flight, and these were successfully transplanted in a simulated home environment at the Myhr Zoological Environs Complex. There it was discovered that the spore of the gel creatures had survived, and a new colony of these gentle animals was successfully cultivated.

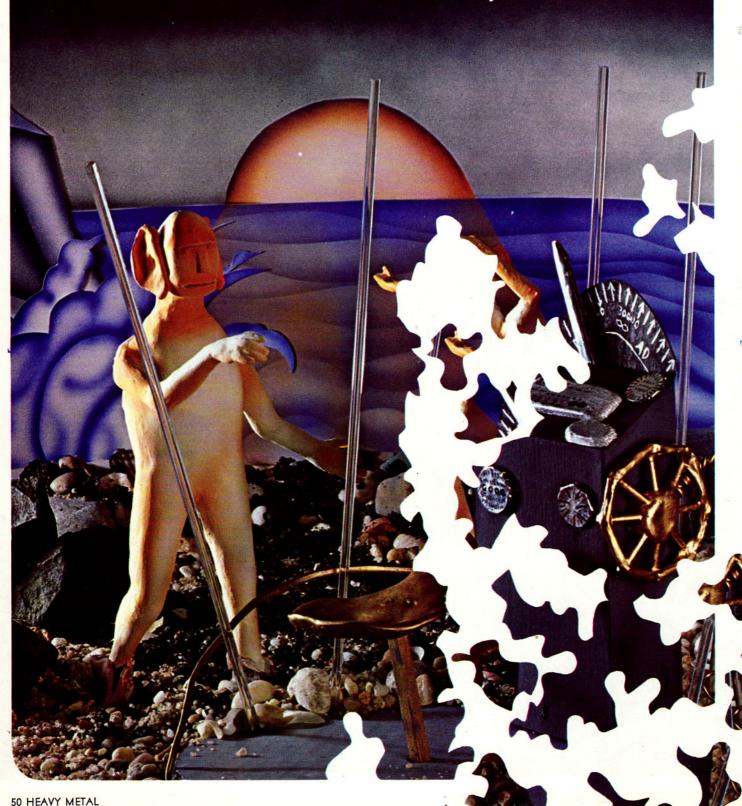

From the Stellar Journals of Karl B. Kofoed

Nebogipfel at the End of Time

by Richard A. Lupoff

The first of them to appear came from the sky. There was a flash like ball lightning, there was a clap of thunder, there was the rush and flutter of great heavy wings, and he was there—a gleaming, godlike figure with streaming golden hair, perfect features, a torso all sinew and strength.

With his wings he pressed himself upward through the thick, weary air, surveying the water and its gray, ragged rocks, the black graveled beach, and dun mossy dunes. A few horrid creatures slid through the dark, oily waters, their sharp senses tuned, their quick brains devoted to the endless quest of nourishment gained ultimately at one another's expense.

The gleaming newcomer tilted his pinions, banked, swept lower over the face of the water. Behind him, sunk perpetually half below the horizon, a fat, misty sun glared redly across dim, dispirited ripples. Greedy tentacles whipped upward from beneath the surface of the sea. The tentacles were as thin as wires, as agile as wolf eels, as powerful as woven steel. The great winged man eluded them with casual ease, rose a short distance above the dark, coarse beach, and dropped softly onto the cinder-like gravel.

At once a spider crab the size of the man's doubled hands sprang from its lair and shot at his softest parts, black pebbles clattering back against the beach. The man seemed not to notice the predator. Carelessly, he turned to stare in moody silence across the dull dunes, his shadow long and black before him outlined by the dim red glare of the dying sun. The man's turning, easy and nonchalant, seemed somehow to disconcert the leaping predator. The man's hand caught it an almost accidental blow and sent it skittering back onto the gravelish beach, where it landed with a clatter on its back and began at once to struggle frantically. Even so the crab had not righted itself before a dozen rival predators had attacked it from all sides, tearing away its waving claws and then boring through the exposed openings in its carapace to find the soft nourishment inside.

A hundred strides down the beach, there was a sudden pop as a globe like a shimmering great soap bubble appeared just over the black cinders, hovered and shook briefly, then exploded softly. From within it a couple set foot upon the strand. They stood, gazing tentatively for a short while at the winged man, then began carefully on quivering pipestem legs to make their way toward him.

The winged man advanced to meet the newcomers, his great muscular strides devouring the distance that their tiny thin legs could barely nibble at. The couple seemed to be man and woman, but each showed only vestigial characteristics of gender—or of their animal nature at all. Their heads were huge and domelike, with only the lightest suggestion of down above the ears. Their ears were huge and moved as if of their own will; their eyes were tiny and deep sunken, but still they blinked and squinted in the dim red sunlight.

Above there was a screaming roar as a great black ellipsoid half-appeared, circling over the beach, growing alternately more and less solid in appearance. The noise that the object made faded and grew in concert with its growing and lessening solidity. Great aerial screws held the thing above the beach, and multi-faceted gemlike surfaces glowed and dimmed as it moved this way and that through the heavy air.

Slowly the machine seemed to stabilize in the air, then to lower itself carefully until it had come to rest on the strand. One of the jewels in its skin revolved slowly, then rolled away from the ellipsoid and lay against the black, dull surface of the machine. A small party of people slowly emerged from the machine. They wore dark, form-fitting garments marked with red hexagonal insignia. Their outfits included black, pointed hoods that largely concealed their faces; what could be seen of these showed them to be as black and dull as the clothing and the ship in which they had arrived.

For what seemed like hour upon hour they arrived. Some by strange, grotesque vehicles. Some by spectacularly announced projection. Some by chronion gas, or drugs, or spiritual exercise, or by sheer mental power. Some involuntarily. Some unknowingly. At one point not far inland from the beach, across the first row of dim, ugly dunes, there suddenly appeared an entire city. Its towers were of white marble and shining glass, its gates were of yellow horn and blackened teak. Its people had pale yellow skin and wore robes of indigo and gold.

When it appeared inland of the beach, the city's ruler climbed to the highest point of its highest tower and gazed into the center of the glowing, half-hidden sun, and sent his chief advisor to have himself let out through the yellow horn and teakwood gates, and make his way to join the others on the beach, and confer with them.

We are here, the man from the city of towers said as he approached the others standing on the beach. It seemed a pointless comment; he did not himself know what he meant.

The nearest to him, a woman of the black ellipsoid, turned her black-hooded face toward him. She nodded. All, we are all here. Your master and your people will not leave their city?

The other shook his head in the universal sign, his indigo robes rustling.

It is time that he arrive, another voice said. The two turned to see whose it was. The speaker was one of the wizened couple. It is time, the speaker's companion added. Time, the first said. They nodded.

He is coming, a voice asserted. There was a rustling all up and down the beach. He is coming, is coming, is coming, voices echoed, whispered, shivered back to silence.

It is time, the golden, winged man said. He raised a muscled arm, pointed across the oily sea. Where half the sun's blood-red disk stood in changeless demi-sunset, a black circle had rolled along the horizon and now stood in the center of the sun like a black hole punctured in a red bull's-eye target.

A chorus of intaken breaths were drawn.

The travelers on the beach—there were scores now—drew themselves into a great half-ring. The tiny, spindly-legged couple from the shimmering bubble stationed themselves facing each other, forty paces apart at the edge of the sea. Tiny wavelets lapped at the edges of their soft-shod feet, leaving a residue of pinkish foam on the pliant, leathery slippers that they wore.

Between them, strung in a gentle curve, were all the others. The black-clad, hooded figures from the gem-doored ellipsoid, the men and the women who had arrived by time-gas and by time-drug, by time-quake and by time-slip, those who had arrived by machine, those who had arrived by mind, one who had risen naked and weeping from a great glass coffin of cushions and of blossoms, and one who had struggled wild-eyed and screaming from a barrow beneath the black cindery beach itself, the indigo-robed seer from the city of towers, and the winged godling from the sky above the water.

There was a hush as they all stared at the black disk upon the red disk, the stripes of color reflecting from them across the face of the oily sea to the edge of the black cindery beach. Then a voice broke the silence. How will we know him, the voice asked.

By his face, one replied. By his haggard face, his bruised face, his face of despair.

By his clothing another said. By his quaint clothing, his rough cloth trousers and oddly buttoned jacket and the strange cloth cap he wears on his head and the stranger cloth streamer that he ties about his throat

By his machine, a third claimed. By his strange, squat, ugly machine that looks all askew with its ivory bars and its brass railings, its shining rod of quartz and its odd ugly saddle.

And how will he know us, the seer from the city of towers asked to know.

We will call him by name. We will call him Nebogipfel.

Nebogipfel.

It was as if the name had summoned the man from out of time's grasp. In the center of their half-circle he appeared. The time traveler and the time machine. The machine was truly squat and ugly and askew. The traveler bore his face of despair.

He rose from the saddle of his machine, slid the starting lever carefully into a notched position and locked it there. He stepped onto the crunching gravel, stared at the black disk that stood before the sun's blood-red demicircle for a little while, then wheeled slowly, gazing at the face of each of the many who had waited to greet him.

He shook his head sadly.

Is this—? He gestured with both hands, holding them as far apart as his feet were spread on the black cinders. The palms were turned toward each other.

Is this-all? Is this-the end? The end of it all?

He pointed at the red, dying sun with the round black blemish now rolling slowly past its center, toward the edge where the dim glare faded into the blackness of the sky. He moved his hand so that the eye that followed was led across the oily surface of the sea, where only the occasional furious eruption of predator and prey broke the red-trimmed mourning field.

All striving, all dreaming, all thought and suffering brings us to-this?

He gave a shrug of hopelessness. A rictus tugged his face into a momentary hideous grin.

But we had greatness, one of the others challenged. In my time—in my time men built cities that towered above the tallest trees, filled their halls with philosophers and actors, musicians and tumblers, and living, naked tableaux. Our glories were recorded on parchment and canvas, in marble and in granite. The world beheld us and—

Trembled? Nebogipfel supplied.

No, the other shook his head. No one trembled before us. The world smiled in joy, traded its goods for our art, sang the praises of our creators. We were beloved of the whole world. This was our greatness.

And now? Nebogipfel asked. And now? What is there now of your greatness?

The other was silent.

In my day, a different voice spoke; in my day, we marched! The voice was harsh, strong, confident. All who stood before us, we slew! The rest we made slaves! In my day none could resist! We were the bravest, we were the strongest, we were the hardest! We were never beaten! Never! Never! Never! Never!

Well, said Nebogipfel. I bow to your splendor. I am dazzled by your might! Your empire stretches before me and I cringe in awe.

He swept an arm, encompassing black cinders, blood-red waters, black sky.

In my day, another claimed, we saw these limits. Yes, we had our time on the earth. We dug and we learned and we saw that we had not been the first, and we knew that we would not be the last, either, unless we burned the world and left behind only a dead stone. So we built. Not cities! No! Not fortresses! We built argosies to other worlds, ships to sail to other stars, bolts to carry our seed from the loins of this world to the wombs of a million waiting mothers scattered across God's whole realm! Down into the dust for us, down into the dust, but our children live! Yes, they live yet on a million stars in every direction!

And yet we just begin! A million stars? What did your age know of the universe, Nebogipfel? How many worlds did you visage?

Seven? Seventy? Seventy thousand?

A billion worlds, Nebogipfel, a billion worlds in one cinder!

The speaker bent and lifted a blackened pebble from beneath his feet.

What are a billion of these, Nebogipfel?

He hurled the cinder at the tweed-suited time traveler in the center of the ring. The cinder struck Nebogipfel on the cheek, split the skin above the bone and fell, clattering, onto the beach. A narrow trickle of blood dribbled down the time traveler's face and soaked into his soft shirt collar.

The time traveler smiled.

A billion suns? Nebogipfel asked. What are ten billion billion suns? How long will they burn? Ten billion billion years? And then—what?

He threw out an arm, gesturing across the sea.

This?

The black disk had transited the half-set redness; a little warmth returned to the tired, musty air.

And after this? In another hundred thousand years, or another hundred million, even this ends.

He pulled his soft cloth cap from his head. Straw-colored hair stuck up in all directions. The time traveler drew the cap across his face so the smooth silken lining covered his eyes. He bowed his head, face still covered, shoulders slumped, the image of a mourner to his own inevitable end.

But our children! the other exclaimed.

Nebogipfel did not move.

The other stared, stricken, at the dying sun. Around him the ranks of the assembled time travelers stood silent and motionless.

Then our grandchildren! Our great-grandchildren!

Nebogipfel did not move.

The travelers remained in silence.

One of the two pipestem-legged travelers advanced across the black cinders, unsteady limbs quavering with every step. The figure halted, facing Nebogipfel, staring up at Nebogipfel, who stood twice the height of the other.

The taller figure lowered the cap from before his eyes and stood, holding it in his hand, looking downward into the great, solemn, squinting-eyed countenance. An involuntary grin worked its way across Nebogipfel's features.

Yes?

We knew you were coming here today, Nebogipfel. Why do you think this assemblage awaited you? Do you think this is all a coincidence? Do you think that these travelers from so many eras, so many races, so many civilizations, all happened to arrive here on this beach, today, by chance?

The tiny mouth drew back in a wry expression.

Nebogipfel tugged his cloth cap back onto his straw-colored head. I suppose there was a plan of some sort, then, he said. He drew himself up to his full height so he towered more than ever over the tiny figure. This is the end of my journey, Nebogipfel said. I miss the London of my era. I lost my Weena. I hate the world of AD 802,701, and every later age I ever visited only made me more laden with gloom, more burdened with hopelessness.

All I want is to go back to my home. Here-

He slapped a hand on the saddle of his time machine, setting the whole thing to quivering and tipping as if it were about to tumble into the black cinders or the blood-red water.

That is precisely what you must not do, the tiny figure piped. I shall board again with Mrs. Watchett, Nebogipfel said. I shall contribute another seventeen papers on physical optics to the Philosophical Review. I shall become the most ordinary of men among ordinary men. No more shall I see the white sphinx.

There you are wrong! the little being piped. Officiously, he gestured and men and women moved forward from the semicircle that stood surrounding Nebogipfel. Strong arms seized the original time traveler. Cords appeared and he was bound and placed on the saddle of his machine.

We are all time travelers, Nebogipfel, the little being said. But you are the prototype, you are the ideal of whom we are all faint reflections. You say that you despair of the ultimate end of life. What would you call it? Some would say, the ultimate entropy. Some would say, the heat death of the universe. Some would say, the cosmic nirvana.

But your own philosophy says, there is no forever. There is nothing that endures unending. When the universe reaches its end, Nebogipfel, what lies beyond the end? What lies beyond the end?

Again the little being gestured. A hand moved an ivory bar on Nebogipfel's time machine. Another turned the glittering quartz rod.

Nebogipfel shouted, No! Send me back! Send me back!

But the other said, Yes! You must go on, Nebogipfel! Once you have tasted of futurity, there is no returning! You must go onward, not back! What lies beyond the end, Nebogipfel? What lies beyond the end?

A tiny hand gestured. A powerful hand reached, unlocked the starting lever of Nebogipfel's time machine. The lever was thrown. Nebogipfel shouted. The machine and its rider flickered, faded, disappeared from the beach.

The tiny figure returned to its place at the edge of the pink

None of us will know, one of the people standing there said.

Nebogipfel knows, another said.

52 HEAVY METAL

What does it all mean?

Heavy Metal means a lot of things, but to most people, it is simply the most exciting, colorful, and unusual new magazine being published. It already has more readers than any other adult fantasy or science fiction magazine in the world.

In many areas, Heavy Metal sells so quickly that readers aren't always able to get their monthly copies. One way to make sure to get yours is to subscribe now. And, by the way, there are substantial savings over newsstand prices.

HEAXL

The adult illustrated fantasy magazine

o rest dun, in walking, ressi.

o rest dun, in walking, ressi.

o rest dun, in walking, ressi.

o reavy dun, in walking, ressi.

o reavy, tactess.

o reavy, tactess.

o reavy, thanked, adj.

o retal of high specific gravity doily; that isk not read, adj.

heavy, handed, adj.

o retal of high specific gravity doily; that isk not read, adj.

heavy, metal.

o retal of high specific gravity doily; that isk not read, a dill, which specific gravity hands.

heavy, handed, adj.

o retal of high specific gravity doily; that isk not read, a magnificant new magnificant new magnificant science fiction, and strong sensiting metal, a magnificant science for short of large as or electronythms.

heavy of large size, he is a or electronythms.

heavy of large size, he is a or electronythms.

and unusual science fiction magnificant and unusual science for my strong sensiting etc.

Influence and strong seream brillian etc.

nusic Hurlant, hasis on stories, of crime that involves or music Hurlant, bivarre a branch of crime that involves or music with emphasis are stories, of crime that involves or music with emphasis are stories, of crime that involves or music hurlant places.

Influence of stories of stories water, weight 2; water water, with a magnificant and as a moderator with the me to deal stories of stories and as a moderator of the stories of stories.

Influence of the stories of the stories of stories and as a moderator of the stories of the stories of stories and as a moderator of the stories of the stories of stories of stories.

In the endosed my chart.

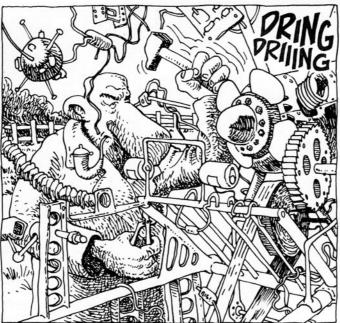

THE OT	sor any	on clu	·	allight
Yes, I want to be a si	Madison Avenue, New Youbscriber to Heavy Metal, me to deduct $8.00 from	the illustrated fantasy m		HM978
☐ I have enclosed	my check or money ord	der.
☐ Charge to my M	laster Charge #
Bank #	ankAmericard # Expiration	Date 'a
DOTTIN IT	21011011		month	year
Signature
☐ Two years (24 is	sues)		$26.00. Deduct	$8.00—you pay $10.00 $8.00—you pay $18.00 $8.00—you pay $25.00
Send my subscripti	on to:
NAME:
CITY:		STATE:		ZIP:

All checks must be payable within continental U.S. o Canada. For each year, add $2.50 for Canada. Mexico

If you do not wish to cut the coupon in this ad, but do wish to order please print or type all the necessary information and enclose it with a check or money order.

sweet smell science

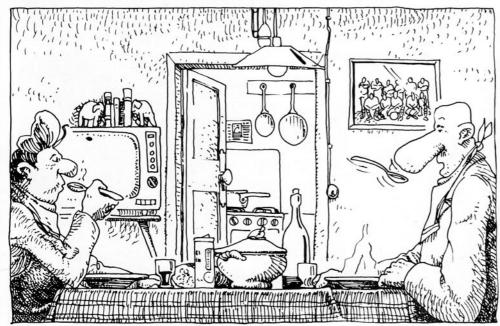

BENOIT

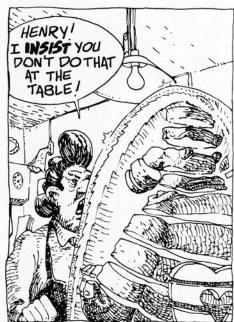

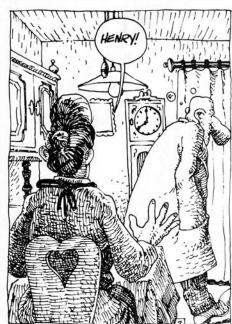

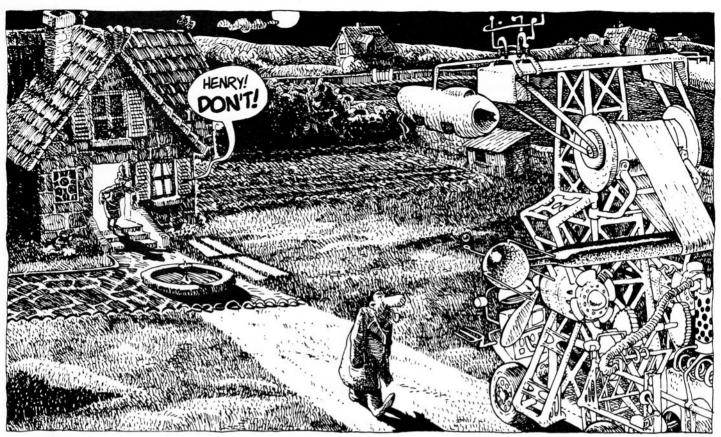

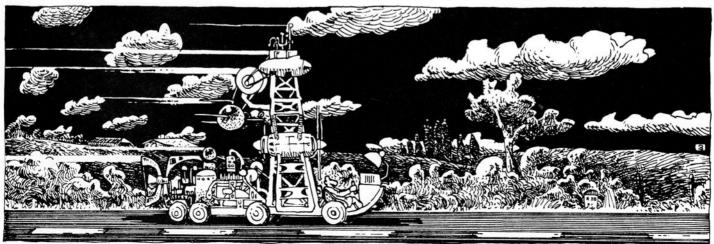

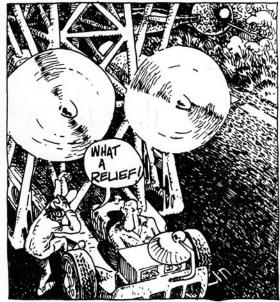

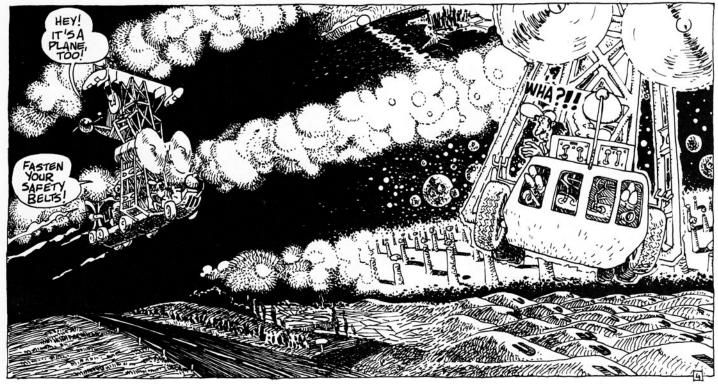

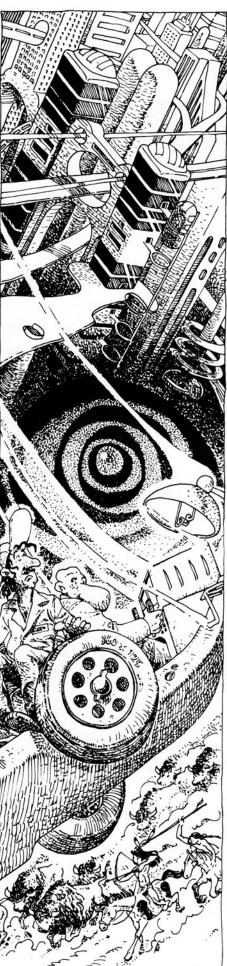

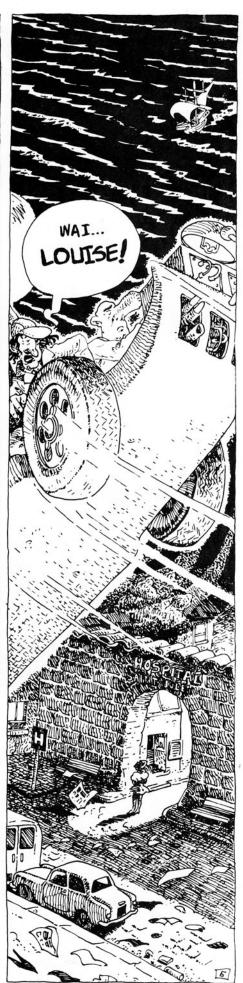

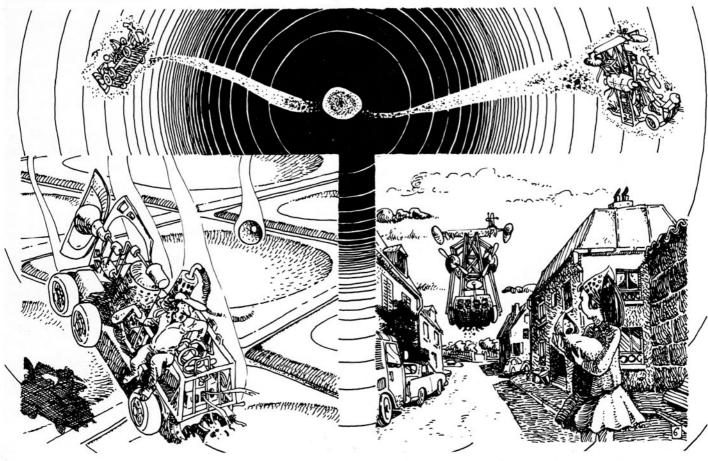

HEAVY METAL 59

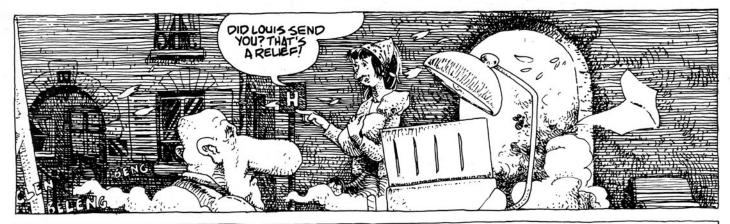

GREVERING BREIGHT

AND 50: LOUIS ZARZO EXPLORES FUTURE AGES...

WHILE HENRY SCHLITZ-SMITH AND HIS WIFE TAKE IN THE POOR ORPHAN...

JOHN BLADSINKS A HOLE.

GOOD NEWS IN BOB'S NEWSPAPER:

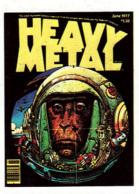

S M H H

HM #1/APRIL, 1977: With Space Punks, the first chapters of Corben's Den and Bode's Sunpot, an excerpt from the best-selling fantasy novel The Sword of Shannara, Harzak, and more. ($5.00)

HM #2/MAY, 1977: Introducing Roger, the paranoid puppet, Virgo, the cosmic maiden, Russian astronauts, Conquering Armies, the ultimate rock festival, while Harzak, Sunpot, and Den continue. ($4.00)

HM #3/JUNE, 1977: Features Night Images, poetry by Conan's creator, Robert E. Howard, with illustrations by Corben; Macedo's Rockblitz, the highly praised Shells, the first chapter of Davis's World Apart, more Den, Sunpot, and Harzak. ($3.00)

HM #4/JULY, 1977: Is a must for Moebius fans, with 12 pages of Harzak and his s/f spy saga, The Long Tomorrow, also the end of Sunpot, further adventures of Den, the psychic Nep Simo, and the horrible Gold Queen. ($3.00)

CTOR'S

HM #5/AUGUST, 1977: In which the saga of Polonius begins, The Long Tomorrow concludes, World Apart and Den continue, all amidst talking plants, samurai, puppets, sex, and violence. ($3.00)

HM #6/SEPTEMBER, 1977: Galactic Aztecs, cosmic cowboys, hysterical shrubbery, chemically-induced sanity, a Moebius space opera, more World Apart, Den, and Polonius, plus a Roger Zelazny short story. ($3.00)

HM #7/OCTOBER, 1977: Packed with knights, ladies, jet pilots; insanity, reincarnation, and other harlmless pastimes; 10 pages of color Moebius; the Airtight Garage, Den, and Polonius redux; and fiction by Theodore Sturgeon. ($3.00)

HM #8/NOVEMBER, 1977: With nine color pages by Moebius and Rimbaud, the conclusions of both Polonius and World Apart, expugs, intellectual mollusks, birth and death stars, and a great new Harlan Ellison story—the heaviest Heavy Metal yet! ($3.00)

HM #9/DECEMBER, 1977: This time, went up to 104 pages to bring you the complete saga of Druillet's anti-hero, Vuzz, a chapter from Close Encounters of the Third Kind, and Fortune's Fool by Chaykin and Wein, in addition to full-color contributions from regulars Corben, Macedo, Claveloux, and Moebius. ($3.00)

HM #10/JANUARY, 1978: We got Morrow to illustrate Zelazny, we got Lob and Pichard to update Ulysses, we got Meenan to do a Heavy Metal calendar girl, we concluded Conquering Armies, and continued Den. Of course, you knew about the Incas, fog lights, and the time warp. ($2.00)

HM #11/FEBRUARY, 1978: Wherein begin the new adventures of Barbarella, naked to her enemies and nude to her friends, and of Urm the Fool in his quest for revenge. Wraparound cover and center spread by Nino. A trip to Venus, the Crusader and the Witch, and Moebius down the rabbit hole. With the usual unusual, like Den. ($2.00)

HM #12/MARCH, 1978: In which we learn the evils of witch-hunts and the perils of witchcraft, the problems of mass transit, and the dangers of hitchhiking. Plus, the first swashbuckling episode of Orion. More Barbarella. More Urm. And still more Den. ($2.00)

HM#13/APRIL, 1978: Big deal first anniversary issue, with 30-page insert from Paradise 9 by all concerned. Also, amidst the king must die, death's duel, and the undead, Barbarella gives birth. Oh, and the sexual acrobatic epilogue to Den. ($2.00)

HM #14/MAY, 1978: Does in Urm the Mad, locates Ei Dorado, goes to pieces on a bicycle, buys a cannibal clock, time-travels, and cerebrally tap-dances with Nino. Not to mention Orion and Barbarella. ($2.00)

ANYBODY IN?

HM #15/JUNE 1978: This time, we go too far. For instance, the exotic new Corben, Shahrazad, the neurotic, Evolution, the ecstatic, More Than Human, the erotic Barbarella, and the eratic Them Changes. And an excerpt from Sabre, and the origins of Heilman.... ($2.00)

HM #16/JULY, 1978: A happy ending to Barbarella, a sad ending to 1996, the resumption of Druillet's Gail, the further adventures of Heilman and Orion, More Than Human cont'd, and another piece of the Arabian Nights tale from Corben: ($2.00)

HM =17/AUGUST, 1978: Looks like more of the same, with Orion, Corben's Arabian Nights, Heilman, and the last More Than Human. Except Druillet's Gail gets going again, the Off-Season starts, cannibal robots get involved, and somebody finally touches the right button. ($2.00)

BEAUTIFUL VINYL BINDERS, white with black lettering and art, with metal separators to hold and protect your magazines. Each holds twelve issues of Heavy Metal ($5.50)

YES! THE USUAL

Beneath the city, there is yet another city; wet and dark and strange; a city of sewers and moist scuttling creatures and running rivers so desperate to be free not even Styx fits them. And in that lost city beneath the city, I found the child.

Oh my God, if I knew where to start. With the child? No, before that. With the alligators? No, earlier. With Carol? Probably. It always started with a Carol. Or an Andrea. A Stephanie. Always someone.

"Stop it! Dammit, just stop it . . . I said stop . . ." and I had to hit her.

It wasn't that hard a crack, but she had been weaving, moving, stumbling; she went over the coffee table, all the fifty dollar gift books coming down on top of her. Wedged between the sofa and the overturned table.

Denise and Joanna had left, taking the d&c tools with them. She had been quiet, almost as though stunned by the hammer, after they had scraped her.

I kicked the table out of the way and bent to help her up, but she grabbed me by the waist and pulled me down; crying, begging me to do something. I held her and put my face in her hair and tried to say something right, but what could I say?

Quiet, stunned, dryeyed but hollow-eyed; watching me with the plastic Baggie. The sound of the toilet flushing had brought her running from the kitchen.

I heard her coming and caught her just as she started through the hall to the bathroom as the water sucked the Baggie down and away.

"D-do somethi-ing," she gasped.

I kept saying Carol, Carol, over and over, holding her.

After a few minutes, she spiraled down into dry, sandpapered sighs. I lifted her onto the sofa, and she looked up at

"Go after him, you sonofabitch!" she screamed.

"I can't go after him, dammit, he's in the plumbing; he's in the river by now! Let me alone!" I was screaming

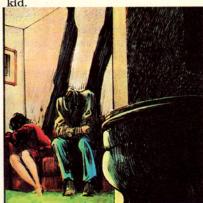

Gabe. "Go after him, Please, go after him."

"Come on, Carol, stop it. I tapped tears waited, and I sat there, across from the sofa, for almost half an hour, wishing she was dead, wishing I was dead, wishing everyone was dead . . . except the kid.

She found a place where un-

But. He was the only one who was dead.

Flushed.

Bagged and flushed.

When I reached the street, still and cold in the pre-dawn, I thought I would walk down to the Drive and mark time till I could return and console her with the lie that I had tried but failed.

But she was standing in the window, staring down at me.

I went to her and looked into her face. She knew what I was asking: isn't this enough? Haven't I done enough?

She held out the rod. No, I hadn't done enough.

It moved with difficulty. and I strained to pry it off the hole. When it fell, it made a clanging in the street that rose up with an alarming suddenness. I had to push it aside with both hands

I had never heard anyone sound that way, ever. Not ever. It frightened me. Riptides beneath the surface of her words created trembling images of shadow women drinking Drano, floating face up in thick, red bath water, their hair rippling out like jellyfish.

I knew she would do it. I couldn't support that I looked from the manhole cover to the window, and back again, and again, and again. She waited. Watching. I went to the iron cover and got down on one knee and tried to pry it up. Impossible. I bloodied my fingertips trying, and finally stood thinking I had satisfied her.

I took one step toward the building and realized she was no longer in the window.

keynoted only by

Go find him.

When I looked up from that circle of darkness that lay waiting, and turned to the spot where she had given me the tool, she was gone.

I looked up; she was back in the window.

The smell of the unwashed city drifted up from the manhole, chill and condemned. There was no rational reason for going down into the sewers. None.

But there were eyes on me from an apartment window. It escaped me.

The smell of the earth is there, where there is no earth. An open grave waiting patiently for the corpse of the city to fall.

I stood on the ledge above the rushing tide, sensing the sodden weight of lost and discarded life that rode the waters toward even darker depths.

My God, I thought, I must be out of my mind just to be here. It had finally overtaken ince the years of casual hairans, careless lies, the guilt I missose I'd always known mount up till it could no der/be denied. I where I be long a Once, years ago, I had an affair with my junior partner's wife. They're divorced now. We flew to Kentucky together one weekend. When my work was done in Louisville, we drove out into the country-side.

I liked the feel of the entire Earth over me. I was not claustrophobic, I was — in some perverse way — wonderfully free. Even soaring! Under the ground, I was soaring!

The walk deeper into the sewer system did not unsettle or distress me. I rather enjoyed being alone. The smell was terrible, but terrible in a way I had not expected.

Instead, there was a bittersweet scent of rot - reminiscent of Florida mangrove swamps. There was the smell of cinnamon, and wallpaper paste, and charred rubber; melted cardboard, coffee grounds still aromatic, rust.

It was a commune of bindlestiffs; derelicts gathered together beneath the streets for safety and the skeleton of camaraderie.

The hunkering men watched me come toward them. One of them said something, directly into the ear of the man beside him; he moved his lips very little and never took his eyes off me.

As I neared, the men stir-

One of them reached into a deep pocket of his overcoat for something bulky. I stopped and looked at them.

They looked at the heavy iron rod Carol had given me.

They wanted what I had, if they could get it.

I wasn't afraid. I was under the earth and I was part iron rod. They could not get what I had. They knew it.

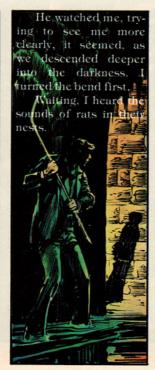

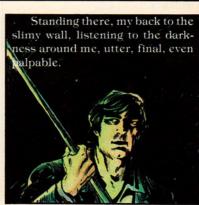

stood up and, thrusting his hands deeper into his pockets, alleled my passage down the

Watching them carefully, one of them, perhaps strong himself,

There's no logic to why it happened. At first, Carol had been just another casual liaison, another bright mind to touch. I grow bored quickly.

It's not a sense of humor I seek—every hopping, crawling member of the animal kingdom has a sense of humor—it's wit! Wit is the answer. Let me touch a woman with wit and I'm gone, sold on the spot.

I said to her, the first time I met her, at a party, "Do you fool around?"

"I don't fool," she said, instantly, no, no need for rehearsal, "fools bore me. Are you a fool?"

I was delighted and floored at the same time. I went fumfuhfumfuh, and she didn't give me a moment. "Answer this one: how many sides are there to a round building?"

I started to laugh. "I don't know," I said, "how many sides are there?"

"Two," she answered,
"inside and outside. I guess you're a fool. No, you may not take me to bed."

I was undone. She couldn't have run it better.

At first it was just casual, but she had depth, she had such an air of self-possession that it was inevitable I would start according her the attention she needed and wanted and without demanding...

I came to care.

Why didn't I take precautions? Again, there's no logic to it. I thought she was; and for a while, she was. Then she stopped, something internal, the gynecologist had suggested she go off the pill for a while. She suggested vasectomy to me. I chose to ignore the suggestion. But chose not to stop sleeping with her.

When I called Denise and Joanna, and told them Carol was pregnant, they sighed. They said they considered me a public menace, but told me to tell her to come down to the Abortion Center. I told them, hesitantly, that it had gone too long, suction wouldn't work. Joanna simply snarled, "You thoughtless cocksucker!" and hung up the extension.

But, they came — Joanna pausing a moment at the door to advise me this was the last time, the very last time, the last time she could stomach it, that it was the last time and did I have that fixed firmly, solidly, embedded in my brain?

Now I was here in the sewers.

I tried to remember what Carol looked like, but it wasn't an image I could fix in my mind half as solidly as I had fixed the thought that this. Was. The. Last. Time.

"You got no right to come down here; stay back upside where you belong. All of us know you make it bad, Mister."

"Take your hands out of your pockets, slowly, I want to make sure you aren't going to hit me when I turn around. I'm going on down there, not back. Come on now, carefully."

I turned and went away from him.

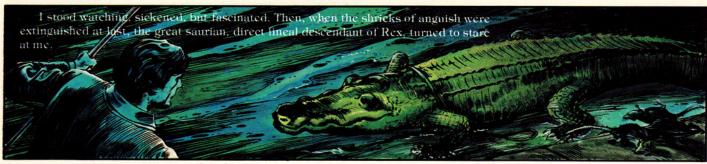

I continued walking. Sometimes I cried, but I don't know why, or for what, or for whom. Certainly not for myself.

An alligator was ripping the throats of baby rats.

I moved back against the wall of the side tunnel as the alligator belly-crawled past me, dragging its leash.

I watched its scaled and taloned feet leave deep prints in the muck underfoot, and I followed the beast, its trail clearly marked by the impression of the leash in the mud.

Frances had a five-yearold daughter. She took the little girl for a vacation to Miami Beach one year.

I flew down for a few days.

The daughter, whose name I can't recall, wanted a baby alligator. Cute. We brought it back on the plane in a cardboard box

Less than a month later it had grown large enough to snap.

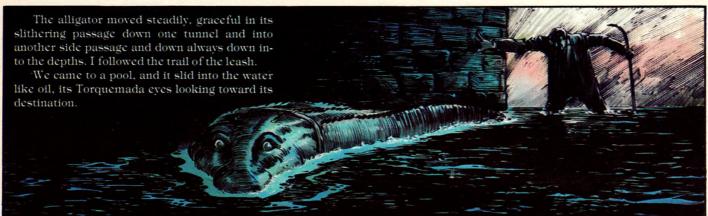

Its teeth weren't that long, but it snapped. It was saying: this is what I'll be; direct lineal descendant of Rex.

Frances flushed it down the toilet one night after we'd made love.

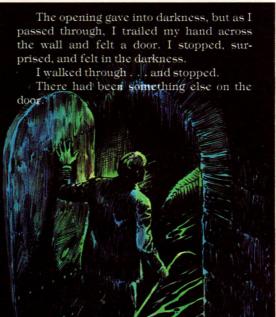

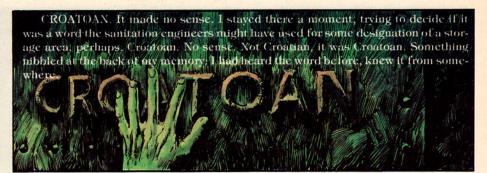

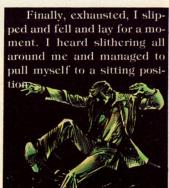

The safe, warm, enfolding darkness of the underworld had, in an instant, merely by the addition of sounds around me become a sufficating winding-sheet

Then I saw light. Flicker-

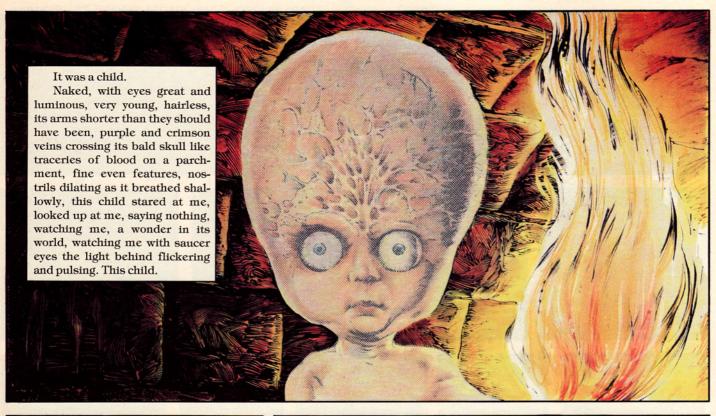

Something, at

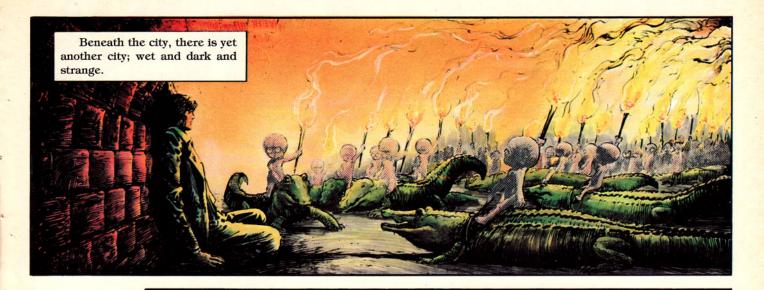

As the light grew closer and brighter, I saw there was something right beside me; the something that had touched me; it had been there for a time, watching me.

At the entrance to their land someone — not the children, they couldn't have done it — long ago built a road sign. It is a rotted log on which has been placed, carved from fine cherrywood, a book and a hand. The book is open, and the hand rests on the book, one finger touching the single word carved in the open pages. The word is CROATOAN.

On August 13, 1590, Governor John White of the Virginia colony managed to get back to the stranded settlers of the Roanoke North Carolina, colony.

They had been waiting three years for supplies, but politics, foul weather and the Spanish Armada had made it impossible.

When they reached the site of the colony, though they found the stronghold walls still standing against possible Indian attacks, no sign of life greeted them.

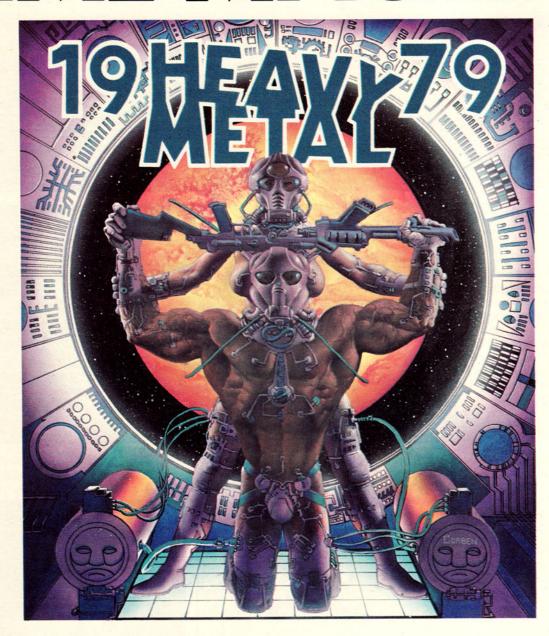

The Roanoke colony had vanished. Every man, woman and child, gone. Only the word CROATOAN had been left.

There was a Croatan island, but they were not there. All that remains of legend is the story of the child Virginia Dare and the mystery of what happened to the lost settlers of Roanoke.

TIME MACHINE

The fantasy calendar for 1979 is from Heavy Metal, of course. From its cover by Richard Corben to Moebius in December, a year's worth of stunning, haunting, exciting ORIGINAL illustrations by Heavy Metal artists—including Druillet, Claveloux, and Kaluta, and special dates—Tarzan's birthday, Druid feasts, the anniversary of the end of the world. Order two—it's an ideal gift for old rich relatives with weak hearts.

Heavy Metal,	Dept 978
	Avenue, New \	fork, N.Y.	10022

Please send me____copies of the Heavy Metal Calendar at $4.95 each.

Please add 75¢ per calendar for shipping and handling.

Name____

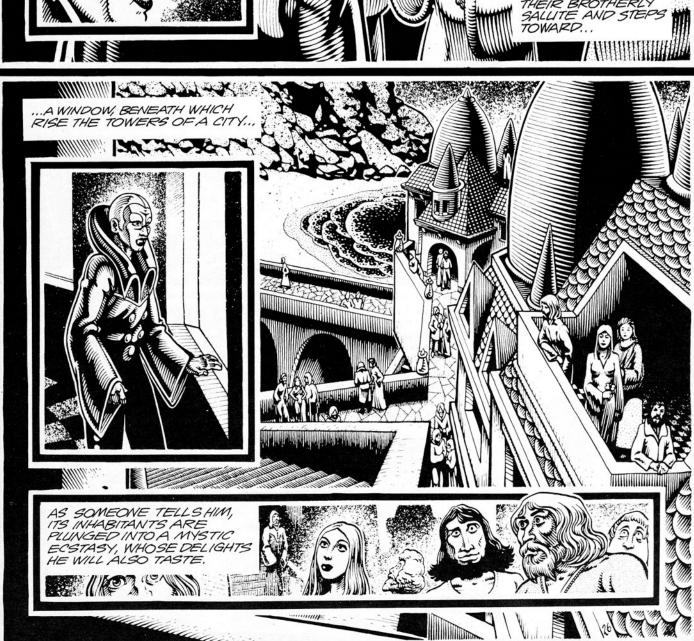

Address____

_State_____Zip____

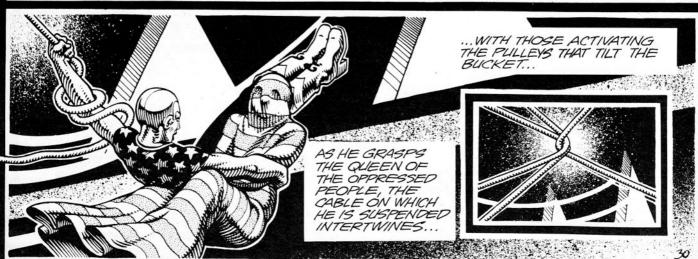

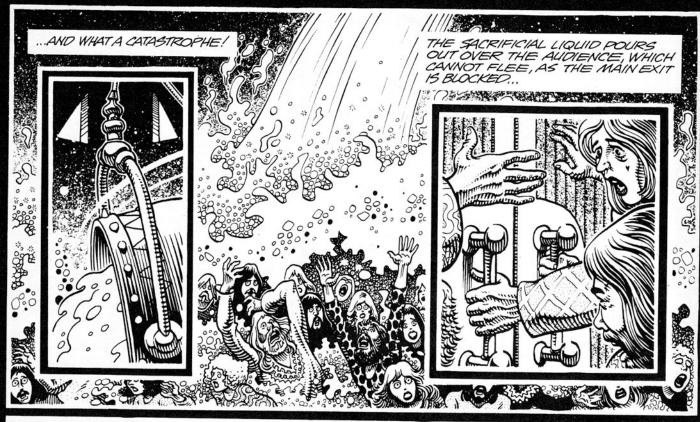

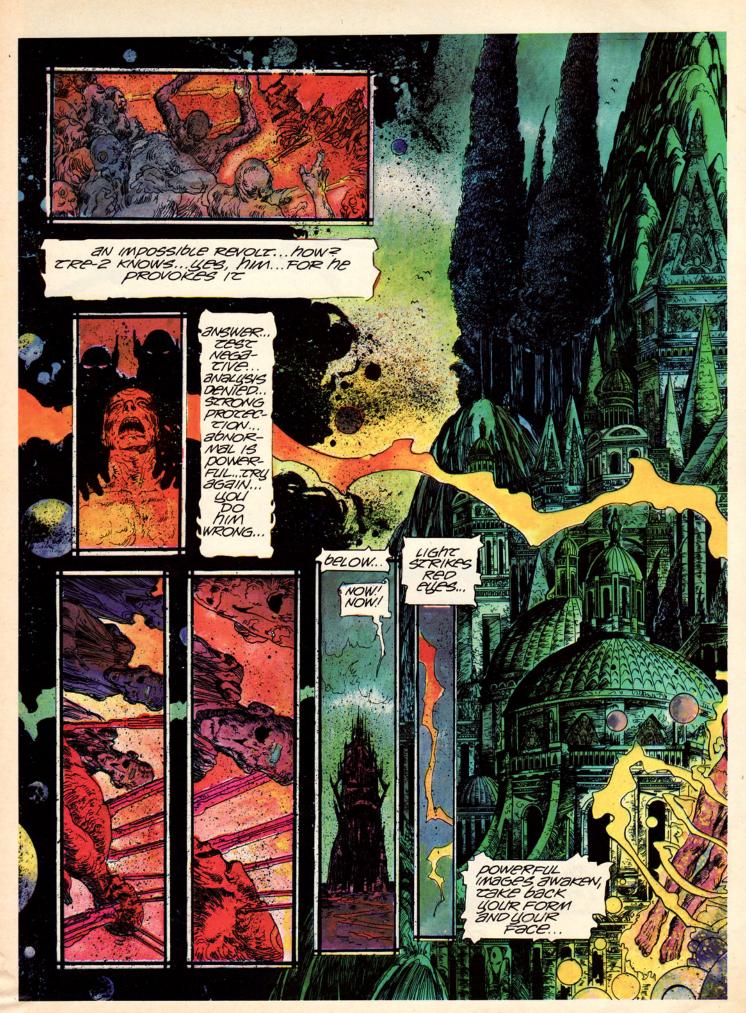

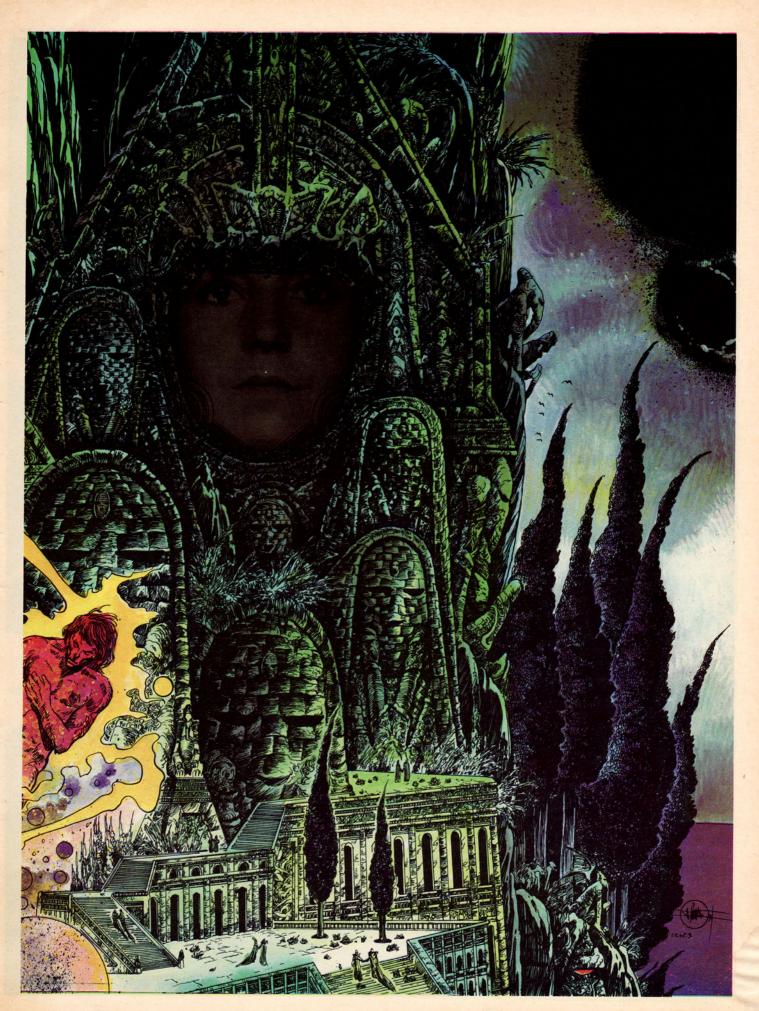

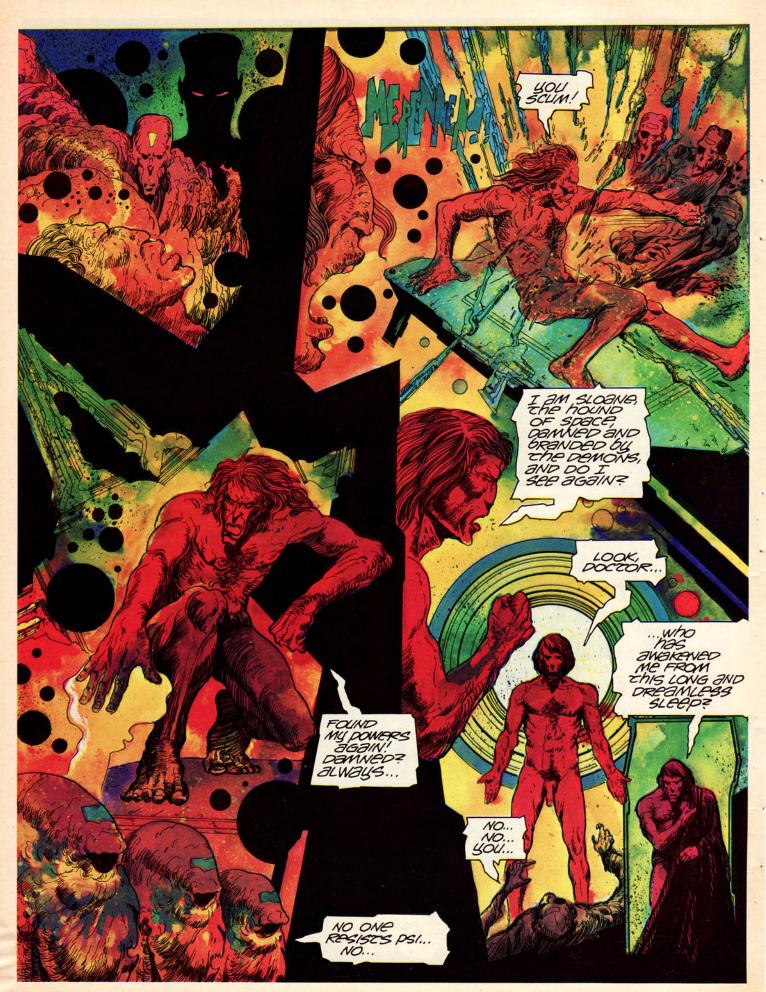

50 FAR ...

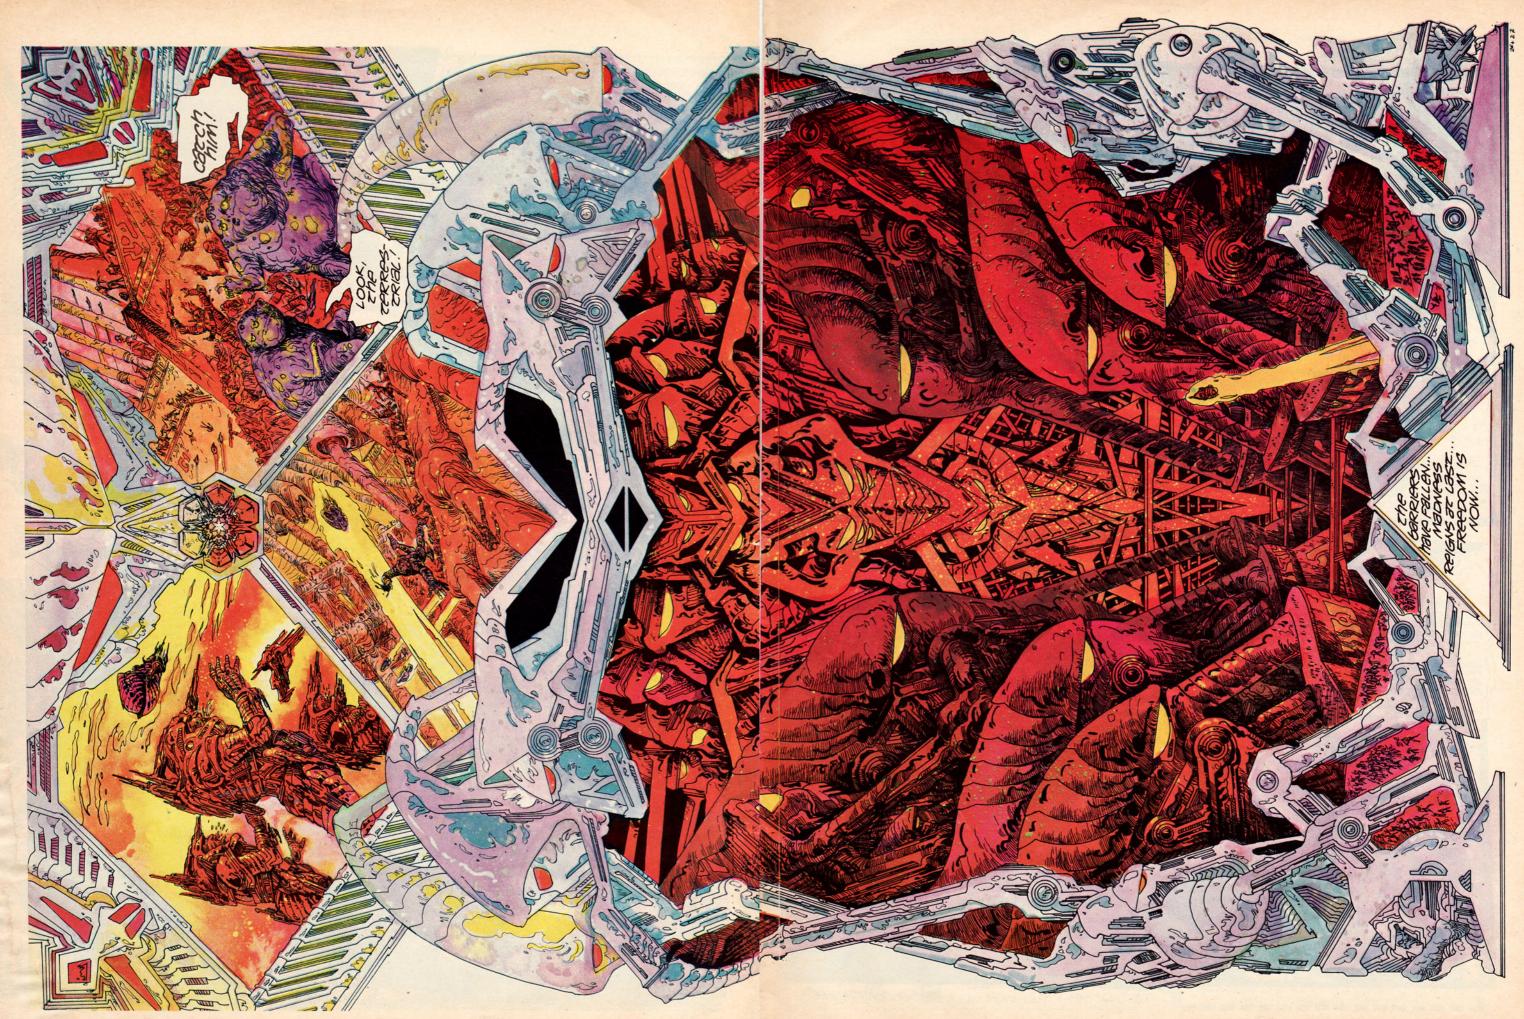

SLOANE HAS LOST HIS MAMORY UNDER MYSTERIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES. LINCONSCIOUS, HE HAS BEEN TAKEN PRISONER AND LED LIKE A COMMON CONVICT TO THE BOUNDARIES OF THE MOST DREADFUL PRISON IN THE GALAXIES...

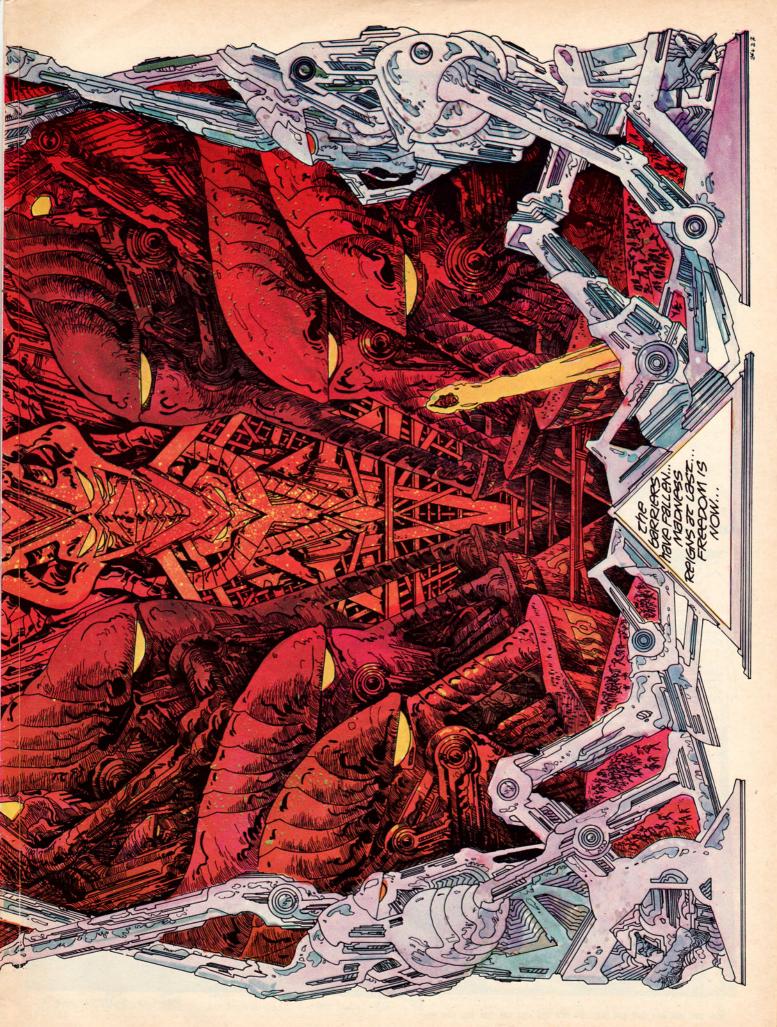

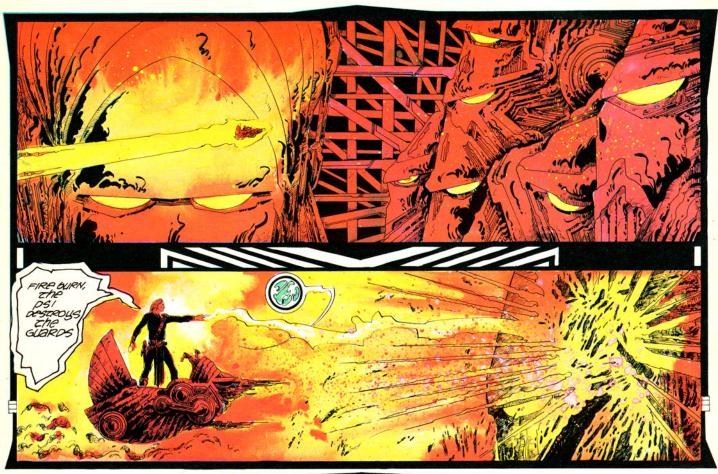

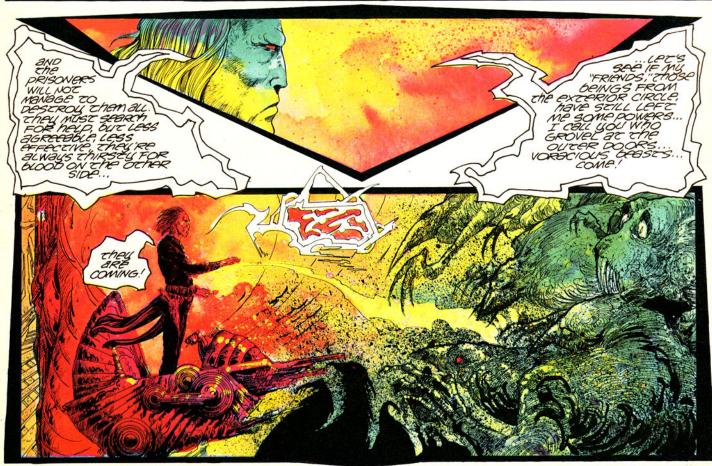

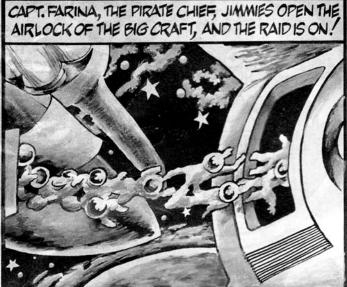

TO be CONTINUED ...

IN THE GRIP OF THE TRIP! NOTHING MUCH TO DO IN INTERSTELLAR SPACE EXCEPT ...

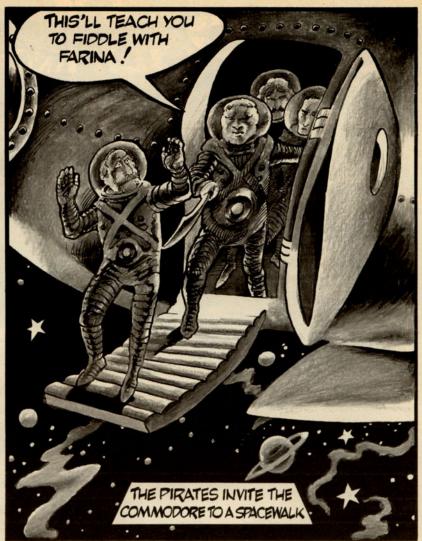

The most incredible T-shirts in this galaxy.

