VITAL FEATURES

HIGHWAY SAFETY 10

Here are some MAD tips on Highway Safety, the best one being: if other readers follow them, you should stay off the road.

NEW MOVIE MONSTERS 12

MAD offers horror movie producers some new ideas for monsters, taken from ads . . . which are horrors any way you look at them.

IF TEENS RAN THE COUNTRY . . . 15

MAD wonders how it'd be if teens ran the country instead of adults. One thing we're sure of: It couldn't be much worse!

THE RIFLEMAN 19

Here's a TV western with a little more depth than the rest, mainly because a rifle has a little more penetration than a .45.

CHANGING HISTORY FOR TV . . . 26

Avoiding plugs for competitive products can be carried too far, according to MAD, which often carries things too far!

AN ALFRED HATCHPLOT MOVIE . . 33

While movie-goers try to distinguish suspense from confusion, this director makes mountains of money out of molehills of plots.

SKIING 40

Here's an article about skiing that should fracture you, which is what happens to most of the idiots who indulge in it.

ILLUMINATED SIGNS 44

An article with a light touch which shows how an attractive electric sign becomes even more attractive when parts burn out!

GREAT MOMENTS IN MEDICINE

We at Parke, Davis enjoyed your satire of our "Great Moments in Medicine" which you labeled "Presenting the Bill." If reprints of this ad are available, would you please send ten copies for our Clinical Investigation Department.

OVERSEAS FANS

I've been studying in Florence, Italy for the past five weeks, and the most enjoyable part of my stay was discovering the latest issue of MAD at a local stand. The price here is 250 lira (cheap). I showed the magazine to an Italian friend of mine, and he thought it was the best American magazine he had ever seen. Which is strange because he doesn't understand one word of English!

Joel Kellmanson
Florence, Italy

What's so strange about that? Our pictures are in Italian!—Ed.

THE SPANIEL

No Cocker Spaniel

In the "Treasury of Unknown Poetry," you have a poem about a cocker spaniel that talks, and you include a picture of a dog supposedly a cocker spaniel. Any clod in his right mind knows that dog's no cocker spaniel!

Richard Lockwood
Wilbraham, Mass.

Any clod in his right mind knows that dogs can't talk, no matter what they look like!—Ed.

GRANDSTAND FOOTBALL

First, you point out that the Fullback is a sixty-minute man who usually manages to play out the full game before landing flat on his back . . . and then you show him lying flat on his stomach. How come?

Sam Schulman
Chicago, Ill.

Flat On His Back?

You describe the Fullback as landing "flat on his back," yet in the picture, he's shown lying on his stomach. What gives? Did artist Woodbridge draw this panel standing on his head?

Mike Decklinger
Millburn, N. J.

You said it—I didn't!—Ed.

It is my duty to inform you that you erred in reporting that Jasper Van Flick '47 was barred from football games for raising his voice. This in itself was not objectionable, but rather that he pronounced the letter "r" clearly and distinctly as he cheered "Fight fiercely, Harvard!"

William S. Moorhead

Upon reading your enlightening article on "Grandstand Football," we, the undersigned, have come to the conclusion that it's safer on the field!

Since this is the time of year when the highway accident rate normally goes up...and since we figure you're more likely to continue to buy MAD if you stay alive, we now present...

MAD'S TIPS ON HIGHW

ARTIST: GEORGE WOODBRIDGE

If you become drowsy while driving, pull over to side of road for a nap.

Be sure to inspect your tires every 1000 miles for damage or tread wear.

Do not attempt to pass cars on hills or curves where vision is obstructed.

Highway signs were placed there for your protection. Read and obey them!

If you must drive at night, make it a practice to stop every 100 miles for a few minutes of diversion to prevent monotony and its resultant drowsiness.

Monoxide gas is deadly. Always open garage doors before starting engine.

Running out of gas on a turnpike or freeway can be dangerous! Be sure you have an adequate supply of fuel when entering a "limited access" highway!

Slow-moving traffic should keep to the extreme right lanes of highways!

Driving on poorly marked roads can be dangerous. Always stop and make local inquiry about road conditions before attempting to leave the main highway.

But there seems to be a difference of opinion among the manufacturers about the location of the engine!

AY SAFETY

WRITER: TOM KOCH

Never pass a school bus when it has stopped to load or unload children.

At all 4-way stops, the motorist to the right always has the right-of-way.

For high-speed driving, large, heavy cars are more roadworthy, hence safer.

When road conditions become hazardous from ice, sleet, or snow, always stop immediately and install tire chains.

Most accidents occur at night. If you take a long trip, plan to drive during hours when sunlight is adequate.

Always crimp front wheels against the curb when parking on a hill as an added precaution against brake failure.

Drinking and driving do not mix! If you must drink, play safe. Leave your car parked where it is, and walk home!

On narrow, winding roads, sound your horn at each blind curve in order to warn oncoming cars of your approach.

Seat belts can prevent serious injury in case of an accident. Install them NOW! It's worth your peace of mind!

IT CAME FROM OUTTA THE AD SPACE DEPT.

Have you noticed the rash of "Horror" movies Hollywood is turning out lately? No, we're not talking about "Technicolor-Musical" Horror movies! We're talking about "B-Picture" Horror movies with monsters in them . . . monsters like "The Fly," "The Blob" and "The Creature From The Black Lagoon!" Well anyway, these Horror movies are pretty popular. And as a result, Hollywood is turning out one after another. Which is leading to a big problem: namely, the producers of these movies are running short of new ideas for monsters! So here is MAD's answer: all Hollywood has to do is take a good look at the work Madison Avenue is doing along the same lines, and their problems are solved. Then, before long, we'll all be seeing movie posters like these . . . advertising . . .

Once upon a time, children were seen and not heard. Then the adults started messing up the world, and suddenly young people were very much heard from. Only, they voiced their objections in strange ways. They adopted strange dress, strange talk, strange music, a strange magazine (choke!) . . . anything that showed their utter disdain for the world the adults had made for them. Most adults ignored them, and classified them as "Teenagers." But some big brains noted that there was a vast untapped market among "Teenagers." Today, more and more manufacturers and entertainers are gearing their products for the teenage market. Which means that, more and more, teenagers are taking over our way of life. So here's an article which shows . . .

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF TEENAGERS RAN THE COUNTRY

Parents would be given reasonable allowances (75 cents a week) with occasional privileges like using the family car to go out . . . providing they've finished their housework.

All taxes would be eliminated. Instead, every teenager in the country would become a member of "The U.S.A. Club" . . . and they would all be required to pay dues of 50¢ a week.

Elections would still be run under the "Two Party System" . . . one going on in the East . . . and one going on in the West.

Old Age Insurance and Social Security would start at 20.

All adults over 19 would have to be in bed by 10 o'clock.

WRITER & ARTIST: DAVID BERG

Movies would still have separate prices for children and adults . . . the adults getting in at half-price. Of course an adult would have to be accompanied by a teenager . . . or else he would have to sit in a special "Adults' Section."

Big Business and Labor Unions would be run by teenagers, and arbitrational disputes would be settled by means of the courts.

For safety sake, an adult would not be allowed to drive an automobile unless accompanied by a licensed teenage driver.

Leonard Bernstein, Jr., with the assistance of a swinging combo, would explain Rock 'n Roll music to adults over TV.

Afternoon TV would feature chaotic "Adult Dance Parties."

A constant state of tension would exist as teenage leaders of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. carried on a "Cold Rumble."

The teenage President of the U.S. would be criticized by opponents for playing softball when he should be working.

IN TIME, THE TEENAGERS MESSING UP THE WORLD WILL BE FACED WITH A SERIOUS PROBLEM — "ADULT DELINQUENCY"!

Adults would begin to rebel against their youngsters, staying out till all hours, hanging around corners, wearing black leather jackets, reading comic books, smoking and drinking.

In order to satisfy their yearning to "belong," they would form "Adult Gangs," which would lead to their getting into scraps with police and adult gangs from other neighborhoods.

And there would be shocking news stories of how adults went wild and rioted during performances of symphony orchestras.

Then some big brains will note that there is a vast untapped market among "Adults," and more and more manufacturers and entertainers will gear their products for this market.

Which means that, more and more, "Adults will be taking over the "Teenage" way of life. And finally, some strange magazine will print a stupid article like the one below —

RED, WHITE, AND BLUE VEINS DEPT.

Once upon a time, adults were seen and not heard. The teenagers started messing up the world, and suddenly old people were very much heard from. Only they voiced their objections in strange ways. They adopted strange dress, strange talk, strange music, a strange magazine (chokel) . . . anything that showed their utter disdain for the world the teenagers had made for them. Most teenagers ignored them, and classified them as "Ty-Agers." But some big brains noted that there was a vast untapped market among "Ty-Agers." Today, more and more manufacturers and entertainers are gearing their products for the ty-age market. Which means that, more and more, ty-agers are taking over our way of life. So here's an article which shows . . .

What's all the shootin' about, Paw?

Just practicin', Son! Being a gentle, peace-lovin' man like myself takes a lot of shootin' practice, le'me tell yuh!

I know what yuh mean, Paw! As a gentle, peace-lovin' man, you've killed more people than any other fast gun or outlaw in The West!

That's right, Son! Because yuh got to fight for what yuh believe in!

An' you believe in gentle an' peaceful livin', eh, Paw?

No, Son! I believe in killin' people!

How come yuh use a rifle instead of a pistol, Paw?

There's more room for notches, Son!

Paw, will yuh teach me t'shoot . . . so's I can grow up to be gentle an' peace-lovin' too!

Why, shore, Son! The first thing yuh need is a good stance! Place yer feet firmly apart, and lean in to that plate!

The plate being the one you're gonna shot at, eh, Paw?

No, stupid! The plate being the one you're gonna bat at!

Aw, Paw . . .

Grip the wood firmly near the bottom for extra power . . . keep your eyes on the pitcher . . . follow his windup . . . and . . .

Aw, Paw . . . I know you once played with the Dodgers. But that was back East a long time ago! We're out West now!

So are the Dodgers, Son! And with the right training, you can make the team! Yuh think I want yuh to end up like me? A gentle, peace-lovin' nobody!? Stick to baseball, Son! That's where the big money is!

Aw, Paw! Let's forget about baseball for a change! Let's talk about somethin' else! Like my Maw! How come you never mention anything about my Maw? Say Paw, tell me about my Maw, Paw! Haw?

Shore! But the memory of yore Maw is painful to me, Son! So let's forget about her too! Let's get to the chores aroun' here! Chores like choppin' wood, haulin' water, mendin' fences . . .

. . . an' stackin' bodies! Boy, that's the twelfth one this week! Don't yuh think we ought'a drop 'em off in town, Paw? Mainly . . . because the ol' ranch is beginnin' t' smell real powerful!

Reckon you're right, Son! Besides, a trip into town is always good for a couple of them gentle, peace-lovin' gun duels!

Hi, Lucas! Welcome t' town! Who yuh gonna shoot up this trip?

You . . . yuh loud-mouthed troublemaker!

Yuh shot 'im because yuh want things t' be gentle an' peaceful, eh, Paw?

Right, Son! Jus' take a look at 'im, lyin' there! Yep! There ain't nothin' as gentle an' peaceful as a dead man!

Hi, Sheriff! What's new?

Nothin' much, Lucas! Some gunslinger rode into town this mornin' lookin' for yuh, an' swearin' you were gonna get it! So I reckon there'll be some more killin' aroun' here! That's about all! Looks like another dull day! Think I'll go fishin'!

Gunslinger? Lookin' for me? Wonderful! Nothin' I like better than out-drawin' a pistol-packin' gunslinger with my ol' rifle!

I know, Lucas! Only trouble is; this gunslinger ain't packin' no pistol! Uses a rifle . . . jus' like you do!

JUST PICK ANY CARD!

What's that? Another rifleman?! That's even better! Now's my chance t' prove once an' for all that I can draw faster, shoot quicker, an' play first base better'n any fast gun in The West! Clear the streets! I got a terrible peace-lovin' mood comin' on!

YOU!!

No!

NO!

AAARRRRRGH!

PAW!

What happened, Paw! You're always preachin' t' me, Paw... explainin' things t' me! Tell me what happened this time! I always thought you were the fastest rifleman in The West!

I was, Son! Unfortunately, this was a RIFLEWOMAN!

That's why the thought of your Maw was always so painful t' me, Son! Because she was still alive... and it was most humiliatin', knowin' that somewhere there was a gal who was better with a rifle than me! I... guess I should a' stuck... t' Big League Baseball... where there... gasp... ain't no... gasp... women...

But... why'd yuh hafta kill him, Maw?

Jus' had to, Son! Things had gone too far! It was me who taught him how t' handle a rifle... how t' shoot! And what does he do? He ups and leaves me! Takes you with him! Don't even send me no alimony! Starts his own TV show! Begins gettin' a bigger Trendex 'n me!

Bigger Trendex!? You mean...

That's right, Son! Your Maw is the best RIFLEWOMAN in The West! I'm ANNIE OAKLEY!

Now you can come live with me, Son! Never a dull moment at my place, either! Why, I'm even more gentle an' peace-lovin' than your Paw ever was!

Any stranger in this country who reads the wedding and engagement pages in our daily newspapers must be under the impression that: (1) ALL brides and grooms have fancy names, (2) ALL grooms are either members of royalty, doctors, or officers in the armed forces, (3) ALL brides and grooms have attended exclusive, swanky schools, and (4) ALL brides wear fabulous gowns and always carry flowers like orchids and stephanotis (which sounds like a disease to us, and is probably why so many of those brides marry doctors.) Anyway, gang, here we show you a typical . . .

STEPHANIE DUPREY NAPOLEON VII WED IN GRAND CANYON

Miss Stephanie Duprey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Greystoke Duprey XXIV, of Newport, Westport, Bridgeport and Pitkynne Avenue, was married this afternoon to Napoleon VII. He is the son of Napoleon VI and Josephine VI, the grandson of Napoleon V and Josephine V, and a direct descendant of Napoleon I, all of whom reside in the Shady Rest Home for Weary Minds, Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.

The ceremony took place in the Grand Canyon to accommodate the unusually large turnout of guests that included the Turkish Army, the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police, the entire population of Norway, and Elsa Maxwell.

Mr. Duprey escorted his daughter, who carried orchids and stephanotis, and wore a long-sleeved gown of ivory silk satin studded with real uranium ore. Mrs. Duprey walked directly behind the bride and wore a Geiger counter.

The bride graduated from 27 exclusive schools, flunking out only at Bryn Mawr, where she neglected to wear a middie blouse for Friday assembly.

The bridegroom is President of Standard Oil Wells, Consolidated Diamonds, Imperial Plutonium, and the Arnold Stang Fan Club.

Augustine Snootpelt June Bride of Dr. Maurice Asterbilt

Miss Augustine Snootpelt, daughter of Duke and Dutchess Richard Snootpelt, of Coney Island, was married today to Dr. Maurice Asterbilt, son of two parents who hold such exclusive positions in Society that their names are unlisted.

The bride wore a gown of off-white silk organza with a fitted bodice of re-embroidered Alençon lace. Her fingertip veil of tulle was attached to a wreath of orange blossoms over a field of beige oil well deeds. The bride carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

After a three year honeymoon at the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the couple will take a five year honeymoon at the Colossus of Rhodes, after which the groom will resume his medical practice in Newport, R. I., where he specializes in diseases of the thumb nail.

Elizabeth Ann Sessingfords wed to Major General Francis Nottingham

Gen. and Mrs. F. Nottingham
after Military Wedding.

In a palace near the statue of Zeus at Mt. Olympia, Miss Elizabeth Ann Sessingfords, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sessingfords, members of the New York Stock Exchange, and owners of the Caspian Sea and the Rocky Mountains, became the bride of Maj. General Francis Nottingham, owner of the 17th Infantry Division.

Mrs. Sessingfords escorted his daughter, who wore a gown of white satin made with a fitted bodice with a scooped neckline and a bouffant skirt terminating in a chapel train. The wedding was delayed for three weeks, due to the late arrival of the stephanotis which came by camel train from Alexandria.

After a brief honeymoon at the Mausoleum at Halicarnassus, the groom, an alumnus of Harvard, Princeton, Eton, Cambridge, Oxford, and Boody Jr. High School, is planning to sell his infantry division and retire.

The groom is a distant descendant of Adam.

Announce Daphne Aldershot-Prince of Bavaria Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. Lancelot Aldershot III, of 685 Park Avenue, announce the coming nuptials of their daughter, Daphne, to H. R. H. Prince Izaakian Metternich Dupois y el de Vosmik, son of King and Mrs. Mernio Metternich Dupois y el de Vosmik, of Gemütlich, Bavaria.

The bride-to-be attended Vassar, Wellesley, Finch, the Sorbonne, Juilliard, Seesee-Enwye, and took sewing lessons in the Taj Mahal. The future groom, a direct descendant of Alexander the Great, is a senior at Oxford, where he is majoring in Cashing Large Checks.

The nuptials will take place next May in the south-by-southwest wing of the family inclement weather castle, near Pfefferfinger-am-Rhine, Bavaria.

The bride-to-be attended P.S. 215, P.S. 177, P.S. 14, P.S. 109, and Dora Schiffer's Mambo Studio. The future groom, a direct descendant of bookmaker Snooky Schleck, is currently studying for his High School diploma at home. Which is one on him, since he never graduated from Public School!

The nuptials will take place on April 17th, at the Paradise Cha Cha Club off the Grand Concourse, providing the annual Mah Jongg Round Robin and "Go Fish" Card Party of the Classy Bronx Ladies Club is over in time.

Bowery Wedding for Miss Sadie Dooley and Blubber Knerd

Ferdie's Flop House, on Grand Street and the Bowery, was the setting at noon today for the marriage of Miss Sadie Dooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. "Two Ton" Dooley, who reside in the doorway of 76 Houston Street, to Blubber Knerd. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nappy Knerd, of Bench 3, 74th Street and Central Park West.

Mr. Dooley escorted his daughter, who was attired in a gown of off-brown Idaho Potato burlap, made with a square neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, and terminating in Thom McAn chukka boots. The bride carried a bouquet of fresh kohlrabi. Miss Ducky Dooley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and owing to her well-muscled physique, also served as best man. The bride and groom, both of whom attended Barney's Billiard Academy, are planning to catch an empty freight car to Miami, where they will honeymoon.

The ceremony was performed by "Grape Eyes" Grenlin, a retired auto windshield wiper at the Canal Street stop light, and may not be legal.

The former Miss Goldie Zelch.

Miss Goldie Zelch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ninny Zelch, of Ninny's Carting and Haulage Co., 76 Hester Street, was married today to Goon Furd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fats Furd, the highly prominent West Side chicken pluckers.

The bride wore an off-white reconverted Lee Overalls ensemble and carried a bouquet of roses, married only slightly by patches of crab grass. The groom wore a partially lengthened Bar Mitzvah suit, and carried his father, married only slightly by the contents of the punch bowl. After a one-week honeymoon in the home of the bride's parents, the couple will move in with the groom's parents, who will probably send them back to the bride's parents.

Following the honeymoon, the groom will resume his important position as first on line to sign for unemployment checks at the N.Y. State Employment Office, 176 Fordham Rd.

Yetta Scungilli is Betrothed to Bruno "Baby Face" Slorp

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Zippo Scungilli, grape pressers at the Blotto Winery, Modesto, California, of the engagement of their daughter, Yetta, to Bruno "Baby Face" Slorp, son of Mr. & Mrs. Bugs Slorp, of Sing Sing, and the Akron, Ohio, Female Detention Home. Miss Scungilli was a student at the Sacramento Slenderella groom is the son of Rock Hocknack, stevedore on the fashionable West 48th St. docks.

Mr. Plettz, whose life's savings ran out while paying for his daughter's wedding, escorted the bride, who wore a gown of ivory satin terminating in a pair of Ked's sneakers. Since her father couldn't afford flowers, the bride carried an armful of multicolored Burpee seed packets.

After a brief honeymoon at Simon and Miriam Boshnick's Vegetarian Utopia House in South Fallsburgh, N. Y., the couple is planning to establish residence at the Ft. Dix guardhouse, where they will await the groom's court martial trial for being A.W.O.L. to attend his wedding.

The former Sophie Phoebe Plettz.

Studios and is currently doing graduate work at Vic Tanny's. She is also a member of Fatties Anonymous.

The prospective bridegroom is a direct descendant of Willie Sutton and attended the famous West 85th Street rumble last April.

The wedding will take place in the late spring, and following the couple's honeymoon in Apalachin, N.Y., the future bridegroom will continue with his position as technical advisor for the bad guys on "The Lineup" TV show.

Miss BooBoo Adair, daughter of and star performer for Mr. and Mrs. Murray "Ironhead" Adair, owners of the Hotcha Burlesque Theatre, was married here today to Red Getzoff. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Getzoff, of the socially prominent Flatbush rag-picking clan.

The bridegroom studied with the New York City Department of Sanitation, where he majored in early morning Can-Clanging. He is currently Director of Under-Shirt Tearing for the Actor's Studio Wardrobe Department.

Miss Adair is a graduate of Minsky's, the Ziegfeld Follies, the Follies Bergere, and is at present special editorial advisor with Playboy Magazine. Mr. Adair escorted his daughter during the ceremony. The bride wore practically nothing.

You know, Television sponsors can get pretty ridiculous at times. And we're not talking about their ads. We're talking about when it comes to references to their own or competitive products on TV shows they sponsor. For instance, we understand that a recent Ford Motor Company spectacular planned to open with a shot of New York City's skyline, only it almost didn't come off. Not until The Chrysler Building had been carefully painted out. And we've been told that Camel Cigarettes never lets performers use the word "lucky" on shows they sponsor. And so on. All of which can lead to rather serious abuses. Like one just a few months ago: as a result of watching "The Nuremberg Trials" on "Playhouse 90," we were surprised to learn a startling new historical fact. Mainly, that the Nazi butchers never did slaughter millions of people in gas chambers. According to this TV show, they used just plain chambers. Seems the word "gas" had been erased from the sound track by The American Gas Companies, who were participating sponsors. We can imagine what historical TV shows of the future will be like as sponsors scramble to keep competitive names off their programs by cleverly substituting their own, and thereby actually...

We move back to the last row,
Because we know they'll show a scene of Dr. Fidel Castro.
It's not your beard, so black and thick,
For that would never irk us;
It's just that we get rather sick
When purges are a circus!

To A Woman Of The World

Dear Liz, we really are sincere,
We think that it was splendid,
The day the papers told us, dear,
Your mourning time had ended,
However, Liz, we cannot see
Just why you married Eddie,
You had much more publicity
When you were "going steady!"

To The Beat Generation

You Beatniks sit in grimy clothes
And rave for endless hours
About the things that you oppose
Like barbers, baths, and showers;
You do your best to ward off jobs;
You fight for each defeat;
You work so hard at being slob,
No wonder you are beat!

out to people we love. However, during the past few months, we've had a change of heart. So instead of sending Valentines to people we love, this year we're sending these . . .

To read about than you, sir!

TO AN EX-AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT WINNER

Although you were defeated, Yanks,
You shouldn't feel too blue;
Just think of all your bars and banks
And bowling alleys, too;
As businessmen, you guys are tops;
It really seems a shame
That you should have to leave your shops
Just for a lousy game!

Should ever special laws be

MAD GOES TO AN ALFRED HATCHPLOT MOVIE

ARTIST: WALLACE WOOD

WRITER: LARRY SIEGEL

Did you ever wonder where Director Alfred Hatchplot gets the ideas for his exciting suspense movies? We got news for you: he takes them from plain ordinary everyday events! In fact, the plainer, the ordinary-er, the everyday-er the event, the more exciting and suspenseful the picture! F'rinstance, take the dullest everyday event you can possibly imagine. Namely, an average clod mailing a letter:

Pretty dull, eh? Pretty sickening, wasn't it! Wait! Here's what happens to the very same everyday event when Alfred Hatchplot gets ahold of it!

DUMKOPF! Mistaken identity is important in Alfred Hatchplot movies! Just wait till Mr. Hatchplot finds out you almost ruined the plot! He's around here somewhere, you know! He always sneaks into his pictures! Und vot happened to your foreign accent? Who ever heard of a Hatchplot villain vit no accent?!

Ach, du lieber! Forgive me! But shouldn't ze accents be Russian . . . not German! After all, ze Russians are ze bad guys nowadays, und ze Germans are ze good guys!

Dumbkopf! Ve're talking vit East German accents!

Oh, I never thought of zat! Anyvay, let's get zis guy out to ze Mid-Western plains for ze airplane strafing bit!

Hey! Don't shoot! My name is Sheldon Getzoff! I'm not Sidney Zinn! You see I have this check I want to mail to the phone company! Do you know where I can find a letter box?

You might try ze torch on ze Statue of Liberty! Many actors in Alfred Hatchplot movies mail zere letters from up zere!

Thanks! By the way, how come your machine gun bullets keep missing me?

Well, Sidney, it's like zis: you're a difficult target, ze vind is blowink ze wrong vay, ze sight on my gun is off, and mainly I'm tryink to build up ze suspense!

Excuse me, Sir! I have this check I'm trying to mail to the phone company! Some pilot in Iowa told me that actors in Alfred Hatchplot movies mail all their letters from up here!

Zat is true, Sidney! But ze last mail pickup here vas at 6:00. Vy not try ze mailbox on ze nose of ze George Vashington head on Mt. Rushmore? Many of Mr. Hatchplot's actors use zat vun ven de're in ze neighborhood! Meanvile, I shtomp on your hand for a vile! Orders from Secret Agent 674½!

Is this the train for Mt. Rushmore? You see, I'm Sheldon Getzoff, and I have this letter I'd like to mail . . .

I know who you are, Sidney Zinn! I'm another Hatchplot villain! By ze vay, ze plot for zis movie has become quite complicated since you got here! Namely, you are now wanted for murder, grand larceny, treason, and holding an overdue library book! Climb aboard!

Sorry to disturb you folks, but I'm Sheldon Getzoff! Somebody thinks I'm Sidney Zinn! I've been kidnapped by foreigners, strafed by a plane in Iowa, attacked on the Statue of Liberty, and now I'm heading for Mt. Rushmore! Both Secret Agent 674½ and the police are looking for me!

That's the most ridiculous story I ever heard. Don't ever try to sell it to the movies!

I say, did you ever hear such an insane story in your life, Sidney?

SIDNEY!
You called her Sidney!
You mean . . .
SHE is Sidney Zinn?

Right, Sheldon!
Only Sidney obviously isn't my real name!

Of course not! Who'd be idiotic enough to name a beautiful girl like this "Sidney"? Her real name is "Melvin"! You see, being a Hatchplot movie, Melvin . . . I mean Sidney, actually Melvin, is a U.S. agent working for the enemy, but really working for us while working for them. See, she starts out as a good guy, but turns into a bad guy, and makes us think she's good by acting bad, which she is . . . Good, not bad!

In other words, I'm a bad good guy, and not a good bad guy, because next to good goodness, bad goodness is better than bad badness! Especially in Alfred Hatchplot movies!

Whew! Would you mind very much if I got off here, and continued my trip by plane?

Well, here I am, right on the nose!
But I don't see any mail box!

35

Don't move, Sidney Zinn! I am Secret Agent 674½! Give me zat letter! I varn you, by analyzing ze ball point pen impressions made on ze white pad you leaned on ven you wrote ze letter, ve vill learn ze contents anyway! It is an old Hatchplot suspense trick! So your goose is cooked!

But why go to so much trouble! I'll tell you what's in the letter! It's a check for $5.62 for the phone com . . .

NO! NO! DON'T TELL ME! YOU VILL RUIN ZE SUSPENSE! OOH! I COULD SMASH YOU FOR ZAT! NOW . . . GIFF ME ZE LETTER!

Look, you've got me all wrong 674½! I'm not Sidney Zinn! I'm Sheldon Getzoff! Sidney Zinn is on a train! He . . . I mean she . . . is really named Melvin! You see, she's a bad guy, who turns into a good guy, but makes us think she's bad even though she's good by acting bad so we'll . . . oh, never mind! Let's just fight! Fighting is much less complicated!

You want me to mail this letter for you, Buddy?

Would you, please! This whole thing is getting ridiculous!

Sheldon Getzoff! Where've you been? Do you realize that you have been gone for seven years?

Well, I finally got to mail off the check to the phone company from George Washington's nose! And then I fell off and broke my back, and I was in a hospital for two years! After that, I had amnesia for three years, and enlarged pores for another two! But I'm okay now! So what's new?

Two things! First of all . . . that letter you mailed came back a long time ago with 3¢ postage due! Seems you sent it "Air Mail" with a regular 4¢ stamp . . .

And second . . . Gee, Sheldon, I don't know how to say this, but you see . . . that is . . . after seven years . . . I had you declared legally dead and I remarried!

You WHAT?!

Sheldon, I'd like you to meet my new husband, and our children!

Goot Eev-ning!

Beginners quickly discover that the hardest thing about Skiing is the ground ... when you come right down to it.

But the beginner needn't worry about losing enthusiasm for the sport ... because nothing really spoils on ice.

Here we see what appears to be a thrilling picture of a graceful skier making a record-breaking jump. Actually, the picture is upside down, and it's a beginning skier in the midst of making a neck-breaking fall on his face.

Modern conveniences eliminate the long tedious climb to the top of ski runs. Today, we have fast-moving ski lifts.

Having reached the top of the ski run, the beginner observes the magnificent snow scene panorama below him. Also, he observes how steep, slippery, and far down to the bottom it looks from there.

But the beginner needn't worry! The descent down the slope is swift, sure, and safe . . . if he takes the ski lift!

... and piling the bundles into the back ... right on top of the cooling fan? What a mess!

MAD'S TIPS

REVERSING DIRECTION WHILE ON SKIS — THE KICK TURN

To reverse direction while on skis, you use the "kick turn." Place skis parallel and turn body sideways to the right. Next, kick out and up with right foot and bring ski down so feet are crossed. Now bring left ski around and over and ... by now you will have reversed direction ... from standing up to standing on your head.

STOPPING YOURSELF WHILE ON SKIS — THE "SNOW PLOW"

In order to stop while on skis, the beginner must use the "Snow Plow" method. By spreading your legs, you'll form a miniature snow plow with the tips of your skis.

Then you can stop ... if you find some snow to plow into.

NEW USES

Skis make excellent poles for use in emergency stretchers.

Skis make fine First Aid splints for treating fractures.

Skis make dandy markers to help locate and direct skiers.

Skis make good tokens of appreciation for ski instructors.

HILL-CLIMBING WHILE ON SKIS — SEVERAL EASY METHODS

Hill-climbing with skis can be a problem. One method is

THE SIDE-STEP

Another sure method used in hill climbing with skis is

THE HALF SIDE-STEP

A third method of climbing hills while wearing skis is

THE HERRING BONE

The fourth method shown below is for coming back down a hill, which is no problem.

CORRECT POSITIONS WHILE SKIING — THE CROUCHES

FOR SKIS

But, whether we like it or not,
Detroit and Madison Avenue are gonna push these new Small Cars!

But best of all, skis can be burned in a fireplace while you're cuddling in front of it with a girl. Incidentally, the proper pronunciation of this exhilarating sport is: SHE-ING! And believe us, it's got skiing beat by a mile!

Pretty soon, that's all you'll be seeing on the road! Small American Cars!

LIGHT SWITCH DEPT.

When Ben Franklin began fooling around with his kite, trying to discover electricity, we're sure he had much more worthwhile things in mind for Mankind, than its eventual use in the "spectacular" type of outdoor electric sign. But, thank goodness for Mankind, there's a kind of poetic justice in every abuse of

"On our trip across the U.S.A. I posed Mama against interesting backgrounds like this, and got 11-by-14 blowups for detailed study!"

Nikita Khrushchev says: "It was easy as borscht taking Kossacolor pictures like these!"

Russia's Beloved Premier uses Kossacolor Film... and shows the NKVD boys how easy it is to take pictures of interest!

"It's natural for a tourist to carry a camera," chuckles Premier Nikita Khrushchev, "which made it easy for me to take wonderful pictures during my tour of the United States. And Kossacolor Film insured clear, sharp backgrounds for close scrutiny by our Intelligence Service. Yes, sir, Kossacolor made my trip to America profitable!"

"Here's Rada, my daughter, standing beside a secret atomic pile. Kossacolor gave me the picture. The pile gave Rada blood-poisoning!"

"I shot Alexei, my son-in-law, looking over Admiral Rickover's shoulder. I shot him again when we got home for covering the blueprints!"

"This is Julia, my other daughter. She moved when I took this picture, but the Radar Installation didn't!"
